
Overview

When operating as a freelancer, you are your business and your skills are your service. Through successful engagements or contracts and applying your skills you will build your reputation. You need to be able to sell your skills to customers and promote your achievements, while negotiating favourable contracts. Planning is also very important so you are able to manage the busy times and work to improve your business, increase your customer base and manage your administration during quiet periods.

You must also be aware of your obligations regarding accounts, tax and insurance responsibilities as well as manage what may be a fluctuating cash flow.

As a freelancer you may be required to work for lots of different customers and you need to be both adaptable and flexible.

You might do this if you are:

1. currently operating as a freelancer or
2. planning to operate as a freelancer in the future

Undertaking freelance work involves:

1. marketing yourself as a freelancer
2. negotiating freelance contracts
3. carrying out freelance work to meet contracts and
4. managing your finances and work administration
