Guidance on the content and context for this Unit

This Unit is aligned to the following National Occupational Standard (NOS) Unit from Business Skills @Work:

DES12 Make a presentation

This Unit is designed to develop learners' knowledge, understanding and skills in visual presentation. Learners will create a visual presentation in a variety of contexts, one of them very much in the context of the NOS above when they present artwork visually using digital technology methods.

In this Unit, candidates will identify and select a suitable body of work for use in preparing and creating visual presentations. This body of work could come from students' personal collection of artwork and/or artwork gathered through research using books, magazines, the internet, etc.

Candidates will use a selection of presentation methods. Some will be traditional in nature and some will use current technologies and will therefore be in a digital format.

This will enable the student to use the wide variety of methods employed in industry to present artwork.

Conventional methods will include stamping, editioning, mounting and framing of artwork. Digital methods will include a variety of methods ranging from a presentation software application tool, or an interactive CD or DVD, or a website or a digital file in the form of a PDF and finally an online image bank where groups of images can be uploaded securely and displayed via the world wide web.

Guidance on learning and teaching approaches for this Unit

In Outcome 1 candidates should be able to identify and gather a range of suitable printed artwork to be used for presentation purposes. Learning and teaching would be enhanced by visits to art galleries or studios where a range of artwork prepared to a professional standard could be viewed and assessed by the learners. Candidates should be encouraged to discuss findings and keep a record of visits and the artwork discussed. They should be encouraged to identify and locate suitable artwork such as students' personal collection of artwork and/or artwork gathered through research using books, magazines, the internet in preparation for own presentation.

Outcome 2 and 3 of this Unit could be delivered using practical tutor demonstrations and learners should be encouraged to explore the pressroom and finishing resources on their own so that they can become familiar with the processes enabling them to output final presentations using a variety of media.

The Unit should be delivered within the context of a blended learning environment so that candidates can work with conventional artwork presentation before using scanners to create digital artwork for use in a digital context

Guidance on approaches to assessment for this Unit

This Unit is mainly a practical Unit and therefore practical tasks should be set and completed by the candidates when. Some theory in terms of identifying suitable artwork and artwork presentation methods will be supported by relevant handouts and classroom lectures, but also by visits to art galleries or studios where a range of artwork prepared to a professional standard could be viewed and assessed by the learners.

The Outcomes may be assessed on an individual basis or a combined staged assessment can be used to cover all three Outcomes. The finished presentations should be both traditional and in a form that uses digital technologies.

Traditional methods used will be mounting and/or framing of original artwork as well as editing and stamping of artwork.

The use of digital technologies will include a wide variety of methods ranging from a presentation software application tool, or an interactive CD or DVD, or a website or a digital file in the form of a PDF and finally an online image bank where groups of images can be uploaded securely and displayed via the world wide web.

Opportunities for the use of e-assessment

E-assessment may be appropriate for some assessments in this Unit. By e-assessment we mean assessment which is supported by Information and Communication Technology (ICT), such as e-testing or the use of e-portfolios or e-checklists. Centres which wish to use e-assessment must ensure that the national standard is applied to all candidate evidence and that conditions of assessment as specified in the Evidence Requirements are met, regardless of the mode of gathering evidence. Further advice is available in SQA Guidelines on Online Assessment for Further Education (AA1641, March 2003), SQA Guidelines on e-assessment for Schools (BD2625, June 2005).
