1 Introduction

This is the Arrangements Document for the Group Awards in Creative Industries: Media and Communication which were validated in March 2009. This document includes: background information on the development of the Group Award, its aims, guidance on access, details of the Group Award structure, and guidance on delivery.

2 Rationale for the revision of the Group Awards

This is a revision of the HNC/HND Communication with Media awards, originally validated in June 2000. Minor modifications were made in 2004 to take account of finalised design principles.

The new title will better reflect the aims and destinations of the award, improve stakeholder understanding and enhance recruitment potential.

The revision of the awards takes formal account of developments in technology. The unprecedented growth in communication technology in recent years means that media are accessible and global, with the tools of production increasingly available. Changes in media creation, distribution and access can promote a greater demand for transferable communication skills if the award content is updated to take account of sector developments.

3 Aims of the Group Awards

The HNC/HND Creative Industries: Media and Communication qualifications aim to develop core competences of wide applicability. The awards have a dual purpose and could lead in to Higher Education and/or employment. Candidates develop high level communication skills and knowledge and understanding of global media. Transferable skills developed will maximise opportunities in further study and/or employment.

3.1 General aims of the Group Awards

- ◆ To enable progression within the SCQF
- ◆ To develop critical and evaluative thinking
- ◆ To develop transferable skills including Core Skills to the levels demanded by employers and/or progression to higher education

- ◆ develop understanding of a range of specialist areas relevant to the industry sector
- ◆ develop understanding of the interdisciplinary connections between the various specialist areas mentioned above
- ◆ prepare for progression to further study or employment

HND Creative Industries: Media and Communication

Specifically, the HND aims to:

- ◆ develop and extend core and specialist competences
- ◆ increase understanding of professional industry sector issues including ethical and legal considerations
- ◆ enhance the ability to exercise autonomy and initiative in a range of activities
- ◆ accelerate the level of entry into degree courses or employment

3.3 Target groups

The multi-disciplinary study of Media and Communication with vocational options is designed to meet the needs of candidates who wish to develop the flexible broad skills appropriate to the Creative Industries or the needs of those who are undecided on a specialist destination. The qualifications are of particular value to candidates who wish to progress to higher education and/or employment.

National Occupational Standards

Skillset is the Sector Skills Council (SSC) for Creative Media which comprises TV, film, radio, interactive media, animation, computer games, facilities, photo imaging and publishing.

New Units in the proposed framework have been mapped to current National Occupational Standards.

Further detail can be found in Appendix 1.

5.3 Articulation, professional recognition and credit transfer

The normal credit transfer arrangements made by the Scottish Qualifications Authority will apply during the transition period. If a candidate with an older award wishes to upgrade or transfer to the proposed new award, it is the responsibility of the presenting centre to make arrangements for the achievement of any outstanding Units and Core Skill requirements.

Credit transfer, either full or partial, can be given where there is currency and broad equivalence between Units or combination of Units.

A candidate who is transferring from the previous Group Award in the same subject area should:

- ◆ be given credit for the Units achieved in the previous award where the knowledge and skills is current and broadly similar to that of the new award
- ◆ undertake any required additional Units to meet the conditions of the award
- ◆ have opportunities to develop or achieve Core Skills as required

The following tables illustrate agreed opportunities for transfer of Unit credit for candidates progressing from the previous HNC Communication with Media (G7GW 15) to the new HNC/HND Creative Industries: Media and Communication. Further advice should be sought from SQA where there are concerns on the process involved in credit transfer.

Full credit transfer

Writing for the Media (DH4F 34)	Writing for the Media (F69K 34)
Research Skills (DH4G 34)	Research Skills (F60A 34)

Communication with Media: Graded Unit 1 (DH8L 34)	Creative Industries: Media and Communication Graded Unit 1 (F6V7 34)

Partial credit transfer opportunities

Candidates progressing from the previous HNC award may have Unit evidence sufficient for partial credit transfer to a new Unit, and should be given the opportunity to undertake 'top up' assessment to provide sufficient additional evidence.

5.4 Core Skills

The five Core Skills are defined from SCQF level 2 (Access) — SCQF level 6 (Higher).

Recommended minimum Core Skill entry profiles for the awards are:

Communication	SCQF level 6
Information and Communication Technology	SCQF level 5
Numeracy	SCQF level 4
Problem Solving	SCQF level 5
Working with Others	SCQF level 5

Many candidates will have entry profiles beyond these minimum requirements, and selection interviews for the award will additionally focus on the high level of personal and creative skills essential to success in the vocational area.

Candidates who achieve the HNC award will develop Core Skills to at least the following levels of competence:

Communication	SCQF level 6	Embedded*
Information and Communication Technology	SCQF level 6	Signposted
Numeracy	SCQF level 5	Signposted
Critical Thinking	SCQF level 5	Embedded
Problem Solving	SCQF level 6	Embedded*

Working with Others	SCQF level 6	Embedded

* Oral component is embedded in Complex Oral Presentation (DH49 34)

 Core Skill is embedded in Complex Oral Presentation (DH49 34)

 Critical thinking is embedded in Public Relations: Principles and Practice (HC2P 34)

* Problem Solving is embedded in Public Relations: Strategic Analysis, Planning and Application (HC49 35)

6 Approaches to delivery and assessment

6.1 Content and context

The focus of the content/context should be two fold as the awards aim to prepare candidates for progression into further study in higher education and employment.

Candidates should be provided with the opportunity to develop a wide range of transferable skills which would be applicable in a variety of contexts and situations. For example, in the delivery of both the mandatory Units and the chosen optional Units, opportunities should be identified to develop skills and knowledge in areas such as:

- ◆ Study skills
- ◆ Research and investigative skills
- ◆ Information gathering
- ◆ Keeping records
- ◆ Organising, planning and arranging, eg, activities, materials, events, visits, visits to centre by others
- ◆ Communication skills — presenting information in writing, presenting information orally, listening skills, reading skills, non verbal communication
- ◆ Meeting skills, leading, contributing and participating

- ◆ Critical, analytical, evaluating, synthesising skills
- ◆ Problem solving skills
- ◆ Interpersonal skills
- ◆ Team working skills — group work or team presentations, co-operation
- ◆ Working independently/autonomously
- ◆ Leadership skills, motivation and delegation skills, supporting peers, decision making
- ◆ Self reflection/evaluation and peer evaluation
- ◆ Time management skills, goal setting, punctuality, meeting deadlines
- ◆ Working under pressure
- ◆ Prioritising tasks/work
- ◆ Working flexibly
- ◆ Being adaptable
- ◆ Multi-tasking
- ◆ Taking responsibility and showing initiative
- ◆ Budgeting and financial management
- ◆ Using technology, word processing, internet, spreadsheets
- ◆ Awareness of ethical issues
- ◆ Creative and innovative skills
- ◆ Awareness of current business or industry environment
- ◆ Recording skills and achievements
- ◆ Self promotion
- ◆ Researching careers/job opportunities
- ◆ Networking/building a data base of contacts

This list is not exhaustive and is a suggestion of the types of skills that would be of benefit to candidates for future study or employment. Every opportunity should be taken therefore to plan and integrate the development of such skills, where possible, within the delivery of subject specific Units and the Graded Units.

In addition to the above transferable skills, the awards will focus on the development of media and communication specific skills.

For example, it is expected that candidates will develop:

- ◆ high level and specialist communication and presentation skills. The candidate should demonstrate these skills at a high level consistently across the period of delivery of the awards. The importance of accuracy will be stressed at all times and is consolidated through the Unit English Language Skills: Correcting Creative Text. All stages of the communication processes should be covered from theory to practical presentation using the most appropriate media for effect and impact. An in-depth understanding of the range of communication media available should be developed.
- ◆ high level analytical and evaluative skills.
- ◆ high level research and interviewing skills.
- ◆ an in-depth understanding of the global media and current business/industry knowledge such as current/new technology, multi-platforms, media convergence, the importance of being multi-skilled.
- ◆ project management skills, particularly through the undertaking of the Graded Units.
- ◆ promotion and pitching skills in relation to work produced in specialist Units and the Graded Units.

- ◆ a detailed understanding of the law as it relates to the media and communication industry but also particularly to the choice of options undertaken by the candidate. This will include an understanding of ethical issues.
- ◆ creative and technical skills, particularly in relation to work produced for specialist optional Units, for example, articles for a newspaper or magazine, PR materials, a documentary, a film, a radio documentary, a portfolio of photographs, an event.
- ◆ working under pressure and to deadlines in an environment that simulates real working/industry conditions as far as possible.
- ◆ the importance of contingency planning.
- ◆ the ability to review work objectively and identify how work could be improved in the future.
- ◆ awareness of and, as far as possible, working to professional standards.

As candidates move from year one to year two, it is expected that their knowledge of specialist areas of interest will develop in-depth. This will be achieved through continuity and progression in choice of specialist optional Units across year one and year two.

The year one and year two projects for the Graded Units could be in the same medium but will be two entirely different projects.

SQA produces exemplars for mandatory Units which exemplify the standard of work to be achieved by the candidate.

Progression pathways

The HNC framework has been designed to facilitate progression to HND level, or to allow candidates to enter employment. If there is no HND provision in the original presenting centre candidates should be able to continue their studies at one of the centres offering the HND award. There are also several degree courses to which candidates may progress on achievement of the HNC/HND awards.

6.2 Delivery and assessment

Continuous assessment provides both practical experience and on-going opportunities for feedback throughout the course. In addition to product evidence for practical activities, written and/or oral reports are a traditional way of providing tangible evidence of achievement, knowledge and skills. Evidence Requirements may also be met by other methods, including:

- ◆ Group discussion/seminars evidenced by action minutes/observation
- ◆ Oral questioning
- ◆ Portfolio production
- ◆ Pro forma sheets, log and diary records
- ◆ Recordings
- ◆ Assessor/peer observation checklists
- ◆ Self-assessment and reflective reporting

Use of ICT to support and enhance learning and assessment will be routine practice. Centres use interactive learning resources/materials, e-assessment, e-mail guidance and feedback and networking groups.

Time management is integral to planning, developing and evaluating the Practical Assignment undertaken for the Graded Units. Individual progress reviews, from the commencement of the Unit, may be recorded in a planning logbook or diary with progress review sheets to record discussions and agreements. Such mentoring activities are a crucial part of the Graded Unit and should confirm the deadlines which are an essential part of professional practice in the media industries. Detailed notes on the on-going progress and drafts of work could also be signed by the lecturer and kept in a folio to be submitted with the final submission. This would ensure the authenticity of the candidate's work.

Integration opportunities

There are potential opportunities for integrating assessments within Units and, if practical, across Units. These are outlined in the Unit specifications.

Examples of integration opportunities

Unit title	Proposed Method	Integration opportunities	Comments
Research Skills	Report (1,000 words)	The Media: Features and Trends	Underpinning knowledge. Possible formative report writing.
Creative Industries: An Introduction	Reports	Complex Oral Presentation Outcomes 1 and 2	Underpinning knowledge

Communication: Business Writing Skills	Portfolio of documents	Introduction to the Creative Industries (report) Graded Unit planning (letters etc)	The Media: Features and Trends research and reporting

Sequence of delivery

There will be variations in delivery patterns as a result of centre systems, structures and resource needs. Most centres have either a two or three Block/Semester structure and each will plan appropriate sequencing in order to develop a programme that fully satisfies the aims of the qualifications and organisational requirements. The following is an example of the delivery sequence for one centre:

HNC	Mon a.m.	Mon p.m.	Tues a.m.	Tues p.m.	Wed a.m.	Wed p.m.	Thurs a.m.	Thurs p.m.	Fri a.m.	Fri p.m.
Cycle 1	Writing for the Media	Creative Industries: An Introduction	Research Skills				DTP and Layout	Radio Production 1
Cycle 2	Law	The Media: Features and Trends	Journalism 1				Web Design	Radio Production 2
Cycle 3	Complex Oral Presentation	Film Theory	Graded Unit 1				Correcting Creative Text	Radio Production 2
HND	Mon a.m.	Mon p.m.	Tues a.m.	Tues p.m.	Wed a.m.	Wed p.m.	Thurs a.m.	Thurs p.m.	Fri a.m.	Fri p.m.
Cycle 1				Writing for the Media: Advanced	Interview Skills	Public Relations 1	Video Production 1	Journalism 2
Cycle 2				Graded Unit 2	Interpersonal and Group Skills	Public Relations 2	Video Production 2	Journalism 2
Cycle 3				Graded Unit 2	Pitching and Presenting	Public Relations 2	Video Production 2	Magazine Journalism

6.3 Graded Units

The purpose of the Graded Units in the qualifications is to assess the candidate's ability to integrate and apply the knowledge and/or skills in the individual Units in order to demonstrate that they have achieved the principal aims of the qualifications.

For the HNC, one single credit Graded Unit at SCQF 7 must be achieved. For the HND, one double credit Graded Unit at SCQF level 8 in addition to the SCQF level 7 Graded Unit is required.

The timing of the delivery of Graded Units will vary from centre to centre and will most likely be focused on the second half of the academic year. However, it is in the best interest of candidates to introduce the concept of Graded Units as early as possible in the academic year.

It is best practice and also in the best interest of candidates for course teams as a whole to take responsibility for the Graded Units and to introduce the relevance of their Units to the Graded Units. This should include keeping candidates abreast of where each Unit lies in relation to the Graded Unit, including types of knowledge and skills that can transfer.

More detailed guidance can be found in the publication Guidance for the Implementation of Graded Units in Higher National Certificates and Diplomas (CA4405)

6.4 Core Skills development

The awards encourage the exploration of a range of ways to enhance skills in Communication and Working with Others to a sophisticated level. The ability to research, edit and convey complex information in the most effective medium and format for purpose and intended users is integral to achievement. Interviews, meetings and presentations provide an environment in which to practise verbal and non-verbal communication techniques and to apply strategies to negotiate and promote co-operative relationships.

Problem Solving — Critical Thinking, Planning, Organising, Reviewing and Evaluating — are applied and enhanced in all practical activities. Decisions have to be made on technologies and materials in line with identified legal, organisational and safety requirements. Plans are recorded and reviewed. The Graded Unit applies the ability to adapt and modify approaches as needed within a given timescale, with effectiveness of approaches to working practice formally evaluated and documented.

Convergence of media platforms in the Creative Industries makes Information and Communication Technology an essential tool.

Numeracy is applied in the practical ability to interpret, calculate and present complex numerical and graphical data, while managing timelines and resources.

In order to apply other key skills in an appropriate practical context development opportunities for relevant elements of the Core Skills have been signposted across the award and are detailed in new Unit specifications.

Appendix 2 includes signposting of specific opportunities for skills development and further enhancement will occur in the wide range of options available to meet individual vocational and personal needs. Development approaches are also outlined in Unit support notes.

6.5 Open Learning

The HNC and the HND awards include a sufficient number of Units which are suitable for Open or Distance Learning to make some open learning delivery theoretically possible when supported by technology. Flexible part-time study with open delivery is a practical option particularly if a candidate is in employment in a media related post. In real terms, the practical nature of work in the media and communication industry involves interaction and working with a group; in order to develop such skills attendance at a centre, which could also provide access to specialised equipment, would be a preferred option for a significant part of the course. Some attendance at the centre would, additionally, be essential unless the candidate was able to provide visual evidence of oral and group activities.

7 General information for centres

Disabled candidates and/or those with additional support needs

The additional support needs of individual candidates should be taken into account when planning learning experiences, selecting assessment instruments, or considering whether any reasonable adjustments may be required. Further advice can be found on our website www.sqa.org.uk/assessmentarrangements.

Internal and external verification

All instruments of assessment used within this/these Group Award(s) should be internally verified, using the appropriate policy within the centre and the guidelines set by SQA.

External verification will be carried out by SQA to ensure that internal assessment is within the national guidelines for these qualifications.

Further information on internal and external verification can be found in SQA's Guide to Assessment (www.sqa.org.uk).

8 General information for candidates

What is this course about?

You will learn about the principles, concepts, ethics and practice in Media and Communication, study various media institutions and develop skills in a range of specialist options such as Journalism, Marketing, Public Relations, Radio or Television Production. You will develop Core Skills, learn how to work co-operatively with others and enhance your employability.

How will I be assessed?

The awards include a combination of assessments including group work, report-writing and research tasks. Much of the coursework is practical. By the end of your HNC you will have completed a Practical Assignment that gives you the opportunity to develop your own media production. You will have access to equipment and facilities that will help you gain practical skills and experience and you will be supported through the year by college staff including media practitioners.

How long is the course?

The Higher National Certificate is a one year full-time course (12 credits); for part-time study flexible arrangements may be possible. The Higher National Diploma is a two year full-time course; for part-time study flexible arrangements may be possible. As well as full-time taught programmes there are other modes and types of study. You may be able to study part-time by attending classes or for some parts of the course online study may be available.

What can I do at the end of my course?

The award aims to develop skills to enhance your employability or qualify you for entry to a range of media related degree courses. Many candidates completing the HNC award progress to further study, either into an HND course or directly to a degree course. On average 75% of HND candidates progress into the second or third year of a degree course in Media, Communication or related areas such as Journalism or Public Relations.

Previous HN candidates who have wished to take up employment at the end of their course have secured jobs in such areas as local government, health education, advertising and marketing, voluntary and community organisations, local radio, TV and music promotion.

9 Glossary of terms

SCQF: This stands for the Scottish Credit and Qualification Framework, which is a new way of speaking about qualifications and how they inter-relate. We use SCQF terminology throughout this guide to refer to credits and levels. For further information on the SCQF visit the SCQF website at www.scqf.org.uk

SCQF credit points: One HN credit is equivalent to 8 SCQF credit points. This applies to all HN Units, irrespective of their level.

SCQF levels: The SCQF covers 12 levels of learning. HN Units will normally be at levels 6–9. Graded Units will be at level 7 and 8.

Subject Unit: Subject Units contain vocational/subject content and are designed to test a specific set of knowledge and skills.

Graded Unit: Graded Units assess candidates' ability to integrate what they have learned while working towards the Units of the Group Award. Their purpose is to add value to the Group Award, making it more than the sum of its parts, and to encourage candidates to retain and adapt their skills and knowledge.

Dedicated Unit to cover Core Skills: This is a non-subject Unit that is written to cover one or more particular Core Skills.

Embedded Core Skills: This is where the development of a Core Skill is incorporated into the Unit and where the Unit assessment also covers the requirements of Core Skill assessment at a particular level.

Signposted Core Skills: This refers to the opportunities to develop a particular Core Skill at a specified level that lie outwith automatic certification.

Qualification Design Team: The QDT works in conjunction with a Qualification Manager/Development Manager to steer the development of the HNC/HND from its inception/revision through to validation. The group is made up of key stakeholders representing the interests of centres, employers, universities and other relevant organisations.

Consortium-devised HNCs and HNDs are those developments or revisions undertaken by a group of centres in partnership with SQA.

Specialist single centre and specialist collaborative devised HNCs and HNDs are those developments or revisions led by a single centre or small group of centres who provide knowledge and skills in a specialist area. Like consortium-devised HNCs and HNDs, these developments or revisions will also be supported by SQA.
