Introducing Advanced Higher History

Advanced Higher is SQA's highest level of National Course. It is very demanding. Advanced Higher extends students' knowledge and skills beyond Higher. Students will face new academic and personal challenges, requiring them to develop their knowledge and abilities, and to think and work independently.

ADVANCED HIGHER HISTORY

This course has two compulsory Units: the Historical Study (80 hours) and Historical Research (40 hours). The former offers a choice of studies including Scottish Independence: 1286 to 1329; 'The House Divided' – the USA, 1850-65; Germany: Versailles to the Outbreak of the Second World War; and Soviet Russia 1917-53.

The Historical Research Unit is based on planning, organising, researching, and producing a dissertation or similar investigation based on an issue drawn from the Historical Study Unit.

Candidates can enter for the Course without prior experience of History, but its primary function is to develop the skills learned at Higher. This includes analysing complex issues, evaluating sources of information and using evidence to support sustained and developed arguments.

The Course aims to produce confident independent learners who will live in and contribute towards a tolerant democratic society.

The Course Assessment consists of one three-hour question paper (where candidates must answer two essay questions plus a series of shorter questions based on research methods) worth 90 marks, and a dissertation which they have planned and produced themselves, worth 50 marks.

Unit assessment for the Historical Study Unit is of similar format to the examination, while the Historical Research Unit is assessed by way of a checklist attested by the teacher/lecturer.
