For the attention of teachers and lecturers responsible for NQ Psychology

Dear Colleague,

As you are aware, the revised National Courses in Psychology were first implemented in August 2004. As with any new Course, SQA are keen to hear the views of centre staff in order for us to offer continuing support and advice.

Therefore the Scottish Qualifications Authority, in partnership with the Scottish Further Education Unit (SFEU) are intending to run a 'Best Practice' workshop in early May 2005 to support teachers and lecturers offering National Courses in Psychology.

In order to tailor this day to your needs and ensure that the workshop and presentations are of relevance to you, we would like to hear your views on the new Higher, Intermediate 2 and Intermediate 1 Courses. We welcome your feedback in relation to:

- ◆ the level and content of the new Courses
- ◆ the internal and external assessment demands of these Courses
- ◆ practicalities involved in the delivering and administration of the Courses
- ◆ any other relevant comments

Please send us your views by the beginning of April, at the latest. Apologies for the short turnaround, but I'm sure you will welcome this opportunity to tailor this event to your needs.

You can send your comments by e-mail, fax or letter.

Once we are clearer about the programme, SFEU will communicate information to centres about the event via the normal means.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Yours sincerely,
