

MySQA - DELIVERING EXAM RESULTS A DAY EARLY

March 15, 2010

The Scottish Qualifications Authority (SQA) today announces that students signing up for the MySQA service will be sent their exam results by text and e-mail a day earlier than when the paper certificates are delivered on Thursday, August 5.

This is a great way to take the anxiety out of waiting for the post and receive exam results direct to individual mobiles and email inboxes – no matter where the students are on Wednesday, August 4.

Students hoping to make use of this service – and 28,627 of their peers signed up for MySQA last year when the text and email service delivered results on the same day as traditional postal delivery – must have registered their details before Thursday July 15 and then have activated their account by 5.00pm on Friday July 23 or they will miss out on electronic delivery.

SQA is also keen to remind students who registered for MySQA last year that they do not have to re-register but they should check that their address details are correct.

As an additional incentive, students who register for MySQA will receive a 25% discount on all past papers from Bright Red Publishing, who publish SQA Past Papers & Answers (see the website – www.mysqa.info for terms & conditions). All students awaiting National Qualification results will receive these results by postal delivery in the normal way.

SQA Head of Marketing, John McMorris said: “MySQA is our direct link with candidates. It lets all learners view their qualification information, check their personal details and is particularly useful at exam results time when they can get results sent by email and text message.
