

About Customised Awards

Customised Awards are vocational qualifications which have been designed to meet your company's specific needs. They are competence based, and can be applied to any occupational area or level.

Because they are developed and owned by your company, Customised Awards give you a bespoke, exclusive qualification which can enhance your corporate image as well as helping to demonstrate the competence of your employees to external parties.

These Awards can help employers and employees to recognise and increase skills levels, and they can provide recognition and development opportunities for individuals.

They can underpin your in-house training by providing certification from an independent, internationally recognised awarding body.

SQA staff work with your company's own specialists to develop your Customised Award, so that it matches your specific requirements and meets SQA's standards.

We will validate the Award, provide robust quality assurance and issue commemorative certificates. There is also the opportunity to have the award credit rated onto the Scottish Credit and Qualifications Framework (SCQF).

Next steps

SQA's Specialist Awards and Services team provides an account management service for companies wishing to introduce Customised Awards. We offer personalised support from the initial concept and development stages through to certification of the Award.
