General Information

Candidates produce one piece of writing of 1200–1500 words in English (excluding quotes and bibliography) based on their research into literature, media or language in work.

The essay must use at least two sources in the modern language, one of which must be a written source, and should have an appropriate title.

Candidates must enclose a bibliography of all sources consulted, otherwise a penalty will be applied. Where candidates choose the literature option, they should include the year of publication of the written literary text.

Candidates must write within the word limits stipulated. If the word count, excluding quotations and bibliography, exceeds the maximum by more than 10%, a penalty will be applied.

The portfolio will be awarded a mark out of 30.

Note: The portfolio must be produced in accordance with the instructions and guidance given in the Advanced Higher Modern Languages portfolio assessment task document, which must be read in conjunction with the course specification.

Only the final essay should be submitted in the portfolio, and this should not carry any comments, marks, or grades; however, any draft versions should be retained, along with a photocopy of the final essay.
