

H5LF 04 (SCDHSC0034) — Promote the Safeguarding of Children and Young People

Overview

This standard identifies the requirements associated with safe-guarding which must permeate all your work with children and young people. The standard addresses the requirement to establish your own understanding about safeguarding and what you must do in cases of actual or potential harm or abuse. The requirements also include developing relationships that promote safeguarding, promoting rights and inclusion, working in ways that promote wellbeing and supporting children and young people to keep themselves safe.

Additional Information

Scope/range related to Performance Criteria

The details in this field are explanatory statements of scope and/or examples of possible contexts in which the NOS may apply; they are not to be regarded as range statements required for achievement of the NOS.

NOTE: Where a child or young person finds it difficult or impossible to express their own preferences and make decisions about their life, achievement of this standard may require the involvement of advocates or others who are able to represent the views and best interests of the child or young person.

Where there are language differences within the work setting, achievement of this standard may require the involvement of interpreters or translation services.

Active participation is a way of working that regards children and young people as active partners in their own care or support rather than passive recipients.

Active participation recognises each child and young person's right to participate in the activities and relationships of everyday life as independently as possible.

A child or young person's background is their unique mix of personal experiences, history, culture, beliefs, preferences, family relationships, informal networks and community.

Child centred approaches are those that fully recognise the uniqueness of the child or young person and establish this as the basis for planning and delivery of care and support.

To communicate may include using the child or young person's preferred spoken language, the use of signs, the use of symbols or pictures, writing, objects of reference, communication passports, other non-verbal forms of communication, human and technological aids to communication.

Electronic communications may include the use of mobile phones and the internet, including social networking sites.

Harm and abuse may include neglect; physical, emotional and sexual abuse; financial abuse; bullying; self-harm; reckless behavior.

Key people are those who are important to a child or young person and who can make a difference to his or her wellbeing. Key people may include family, friends, carers and others with whom the child or young person has a supportive relationship.

Others are your colleagues and other professionals whose work contributes to the child or young person's wellbeing and who enable you to carry out your role.

Relationships may include those developed over a period of time or those established in a situation where immediate care or support is required.

Safeguarding is working with individuals, children, young people and their families to take all reasonable measures to ensure that the risks of harm are minimised; and where there are concerns about the welfare of individuals or children and young people, appropriate action is taken to address those concerns working to national policies and guidance and to agreed local policies and procedures in full partnership with local agencies.

Scope/range related to Knowledge and Understanding
