- ◆ further study, employment and/or training

Further details are provided in the Rationale section.

Equality and inclusion

This Course Specification has been designed to ensure that there are no unnecessary barriers to learning or assessment. The individual needs of learners should be taken into account when planning learning experiences, selecting assessment methods or considering alternative evidence. For further information, please refer to the Course Support Notes.

Rationale

All new and revised National Courses reflect Curriculum for Excellence values, purposes and principles. They offer flexibility, provide more time for learning, more focus on skills and applying learning, and scope for personalisation and choice.

In this Course, and its component Units, there will be an emphasis on skills development and the application of those skills. Assessment approaches will be proportionate, fit for purpose and will promote best practice, enabling learners to achieve the highest standards they can.

This Course provides learners with opportunities to continue to acquire and develop the attributes and capabilities of the four capacities as well as skills for learning, skills for life and skills for work.

All Courses provide opportunities for learners to develop breadth, challenge and application, but the focus and balance of the assessment will be appropriate for the subject area.

Relationship between the Course and Curriculum for Excellence values, purposes and principles

This Course build upon the principles and practices for social studies and will be developed primarily, although not exclusively, from the 'people, past events and societies' organiser within the experiences and outcomes in the social studies curriculum area.

In History, learners develop their understanding of the world by learning about other people and their values, in different times, places and circumstances.

This Course will encourage learners to develop important attitudes, including: an open mind and respect for the values, beliefs and cultures of others; openness to new thinking and ideas; and a sense of responsibility and global citizenship.

This Course contributes to learners' understanding of the society in which they live and work by helping them to develop a map of the past and an appreciation and understanding of the forces which have shaped the world today.

The acquisition of discipline-based knowledge and understanding of historical events is central to helping learners function as effective contributors to society, as well as giving them more individual confidence in their learning and working lives.

History encourages learners to develop the attributes and capabilities of the four capacities in many respects. For example, learners' horizons are extended and they are challenged to look at the world in new ways. Their confidence grows as they begin to understand more about their sense of identity and place in the contemporary world. Learners will build up a framework of historical knowledge and understanding which can help them develop a sense of responsible citizenship.

The investigative and critical thinking activities in this Course give learners important experience in contributing to group work and also working on their own. Learners will acquire attributes which will be important for their life and work.

Through the skills and content of this Course, learners will develop a coherent and balanced understanding of Scottish, British, European and world history. The emphasis on sources will develop thinking skills. Learners will also progressively develop skills in literacy.

Through its focus on sources, learners will develop a sense of responsible citizenship.

Purpose and aims of the Course

The purpose of this Course is to open up the world of the past for learners. History provides learners with insights into their own lives and of the society and the wider world in which they live.

By examining the past, learners can better understand their own communities, their country and the wider world. Through an understanding of the concept of continuity, they can better appreciate change and its significance, both in their own times and in the past.

The learner will acquire breadth and depth in their knowledge and understanding of the past through the study of Scottish, British, European and world contexts in a variety of time periods. Options cover topics from the Medieval, Early Modern and Later Modern periods and include elements of political, social, economic and cultural history. The approach developed and the understanding gained can be applied to other historical settings and issues.

The main aims of the course are to enable learners to develop:

- ◆ a conceptual understanding of the past
- ◆ a range of skills including the ability to apply a basic historical perspective and comment on historical sources
- ◆ a basic knowledge and understanding of the factors contributing to historical events
- ◆ a basic knowledge and understanding of the impact of historical events

Information about typical learners who might do the Course

History Courses are relevant for a wide range of learners. This Course is appropriate for those who wish to develop an understanding of history or who are seeking to progress and specialise in further historical study.

Entry to this Course is at the discretion of the centre. However, it may be beneficial for the learner to have the skills and knowledge from the relevant experiences and outcomes from the broad general education and equivalent qualifications.

Through the successful completion of this Course, learners will develop a range of important and transferable skills, including: commenting on a limited range of sources; presenting basic information about historical themes and events; and communicating a basic conclusion based on evidence.

All Courses in this suite will take account of the needs of all learners and provide sufficient flexibility to enable learners to achieve in different ways and at a different pace.

History Units and Courses are offered from SCQF level 3 to SCQF level 7. Vertical progression is possible through the levels of History qualifications and lateral progression is possible to other Social Studies qualifications.

The National 3 History Course provides an entry qualification for further study, employment and training. This Course is a preparation for a diverse range of occupations and careers.

Course structure and conditions of award

Course structure

This Course develops a range of cognitive skills. It encourages active learning in the process of developing an understanding of people and society in the past. Learners will acquire and apply relevant knowledge and learn to apply skills of investigating, analysing and evaluating sources in order to understand and explain important historical events and themes.

This Course has three mandatory Units. Within each Unit there is a considerable degree of flexibility in contexts and themes which can be studied to allow personalisation and choice.

By undertaking this Course, learners will develop a wide range of transferable skills. These include commenting on the origin and authorship of a limited range of sources, and presenting information on the impact of a historical development in a routine way as well as the factors contributing towards a historical development. Learners will draw basic conclusions based on evidence.

The skills listed above will be developed and applied over a range of historical contexts. Each Unit also offers opportunities for learners to focus on particular skills.

Units are statements of standards for assessment and not programmes of learning and teaching. They can be delivered in a number of ways.

Historical Study: Scottish (National 3)

In this Unit, learners will develop techniques to comment on historical sources. Events and themes of Scottish history may be studied from the Medieval, Early Modern or Later Modern period. Learners will develop knowledge and understanding of an area of historical study.

Historical Study: British (National 3)

In this Unit, learners will develop techniques to comment on the impact of historical developments. Events and themes of British history may be studied from the Medieval, Early Modern or Later Modern period. Learners will develop knowledge and understanding of an area of historical study.

Historical Study: European and World (National 3)

In this Unit, learners will develop techniques to comment on the factors contributing to historical developments. Events and themes of European and world history may be studied from the Medieval, Early Modern or Later Modern period. Learners will develop knowledge and understanding of an area of historical study.

Conditions of award

To achieve the National 3 History Course, learners must pass all of the required Units. The required Units are shown in the Course outline section.

National 3 Courses are not graded.

Skills, knowledge and understanding

Full skills, knowledge and understanding for the Course will be given in the Course Support Notes. A broad overview of the subject skills, knowledge and understanding that will be covered in the Course is given in this section.

This covers:

- ◆ commenting on the origin and content of a range of historical sources in a basic way
- ◆ commenting on the impact of historical developments and organising basic information
- ◆ commenting on the factors contributing towards historical developments, and drawing basic conclusions
- ◆ developing a basic factual knowledge and understanding of historical themes and events in Scottish, British, European and world contexts

Skills, knowledge and understanding to be included in the Course will be appropriate to the SCQF level of the Course. The SCQF level descriptors give further information on characteristics and expected performance at each SCQF level (www.sqa.org.uk/scqf).

Assessment

Further information about assessment for the Course is included in the Course Support Notes.

Unit assessment

All Units are internally assessed against the requirements shown in the Unit Specification.

They can be assessed on an individual Unit basis or by using other approaches which combine the assessment for more than one Unit.

They will be assessed on a pass/fail basis within centres. SQA will provide rigorous external quality assurance, including external verification, to ensure assessment judgments are consistent and meet national standards.

The assessment of the Units in this Course will be as follows:

Historical Study: Scottish (National 3)

The learner will be required to give evidence of:

- ◆ ability to comment in a basic way on historical sources, taking into account aspects of their origin and content
- ◆ descriptions and explanations demonstrating a basic factual knowledge and understanding of themes and events within an area of Scottish history

Historical Study: British (National 3)

The learner will be required to give evidence of:

- ◆ ability to comment on the impact of a historical development in a basic way and organise basic information
- ◆ descriptions and explanations demonstrating a basic factual knowledge and understanding, of themes and events within an area of British history

Historical Study: European and World (National 3)

The learner will be required to give evidence of:

- ◆ ability to comment on the factors contributing towards a historical development in a basic way, and draw a basic conclusion
- ◆ descriptions and explanations demonstrating a basic factual knowledge and understanding of themes and events within an area of European and World history

Development of skills for learning, skills for life and skills for work

It is expected that learners will develop broad, generic skills through this Course. The skills that learners will be expected to improve on and develop through the Course are based on SQA's Skills Framework: Skills for Learning, Skills for Life and Skills for Work and drawn from the main skills areas listed below. These must be built into the Course where there are appropriate opportunities.

1 Literacy

1.1 Reading

4 Employability, enterprise and citizenship

4.6 Citizenship

5 Thinking skills

5.2 Understanding

5.3 Applying

Amplification of these skills is given in SQA's Skills Framework: Skills for Learning, Skills for Life and Skills for Work. The level of these skills will be appropriate to the level of the Course. Further information on building in skills for learning, skills for life and skills for work for the Course is given in the Course Support Notes.
