

2004 English Creative Writing Folio

Advanced Higher

Finalised Marking Instructions

CONTENTS

SECTION 1	WHAT IS REQUIRED OF CANDIDATES	Pages 3—10
SECTION 2	WHAT IS REQUIRED OF MARKERS	Pages 11—23

SECTION 1 WHAT IS REQUIRED OF CANDIDATES

What is required of candidates is determined by the regulations of the national course and unit specifications, key parts of which, as a reminder to markers, are reproduced below.

A. EXTRACTS FROM THE NATIONAL COURSE SPECIFICATION

1. Assessment

The award of Advanced Higher English will be based on a combination of internal and external assessment. To gain the award, candidates must pass internal unit assessments in all three of the component units which constitute the course they have chosen; and they must pass external course assessment related to these units. External course assessment will provide the basis for grading attainment for the course award.

In relation to English: Creative Writing, candidates will be subject to the following external assessment requirement:

- By the date of the examination, candidates will be required to submit to SQA, as a component of course assessment, a folio comprising two pieces of creative writing in different genres, authenticated as having been produced in a manner that satisfies the evidence requirements of the unit.

The creative writing folio will carry a weighting of 30%.

Authors, texts and topics that are central to the work of candidates in English: Specialist Study may not be used in any other parts of external course assessment.

Candidates will be required to record on their answer booklet(s)/folio flyleaf

- Specialist Study texts and topics

2. Guidance on grading

Guidance on grading for this course is offered in terms of additional qualities that candidates may display beyond grade C. For those key areas of quality beyond Grade C, performance is described at Grade A. These descriptions constitute Indicators of Excellence. Grade A performance will be characterised by overall high quality showing evidence of at least four of the Indicators of Excellence across at least two of the categories listed in the Performance Criteria and Indicators of Excellence tables for each outcome.

Where the overall quality of a piece of work goes beyond the performance criteria for Grade C, but falls short of Grade A, it will attain Grade B.

Performance criteria at Advanced Higher should be viewed in the light of the evidence requirements and support notes provided in the unit specifications. These take account of the fact that, at this level, the complexity of the tasks and the nature and volume of the materials demand advanced skills from candidates, the majority of whom will previously have achieved Higher.

3. Performance Criteria and Indicators of Excellence tables for Creative Writing

GRADE C Performance Criteria	GRADE A Indicators of Excellence At least 4 bullet points from at least two categories.
Content The central thematic concern emerges in a way that reveals thoughtfulness, insight, imagination. Structure The structure of the chosen form is exploited to achieve desired effects. Stance/tone/mood The stance adopted by the writer in relation to the reader and to the material is clear and appropriate; tone or mood is controlled and deliberate. Expression Style and language, including the use of techniques relevant to the genre, are deployed to achieve desired effects.	Content <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The central thematic concern emerges in a way that reveals a high degree of thoughtfulness, insight, imagination. Structure <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Skilful shaping and sequencing contribute significantly to impact. • The potential of the chosen form is exploited with a high degree of skill and imagination. Stance/tone/mood <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A distinctive authorial voice emerges. • Tone or mood is skilfully created and sustained. Expression <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Techniques relevant to the genre are deployed with resourcefulness and subtlety. • Style and language are deployed with skill and originality.

B. EXTRACTS FROM THE NATIONAL UNIT SPECIFICATION

1. Outcome

Write creatively in more than one genre.

2. Performance Criteria

Content

The central thematic concern emerges in a way that reveals thoughtfulness, insight, imagination.

Structure

The structure of the chosen form is exploited to achieve desired effects.

Stance/tone/mood

The stance adopted by the writer in relation to the reader and to the material is clear and appropriate; tone or mood is controlled and deliberate.

Expression

Style and language, including the use of techniques relevant to the genre, are deployed to achieve desired effects.

3. Evidence Requirements

Candidates must produce two pieces of creative writing in at least two of the following genres:

- reflective essay
- prose fiction
- poetry
- drama.

Each piece of creative writing, poetry excepted, must be at least 1000 words in length. The length of a piece of poetry will depend on the chosen form, but should be sufficient to permit demonstration of all of the performance criteria.

Each piece of writing must be unassisted and produced under a system of supervision that guarantees authenticity through a process requiring candidates to submit the following at appropriate stages:

- draft title and proposals
- outline plan
- first draft
- final submission.

Draft materials must be retained as evidence of authenticity.

Candidates must meet all of the performance criteria in each piece of writing.

4. Guidance on Content and Context

The distinctive characteristics of the four specified forms of creative writing require close attention.

Reflective Essay

The reflective essay will:

- aim to interest or give pleasure, not, as a rule, information
- concern itself with, usually, a single idea, insight, experience
- be genuinely contemplative; its personal tone may be confidential, concerned, amused, indignant...
- communicate to the reader a clear sense of the writer's personality
- not merely offer the product of reflection, but engage the reader in the process of reflection.

Although the form of writing within this genre is restricted to the essay, there is scope for a range of topics and a variety of treatments.

The subject of reflection could, for example, be:

- a person, a place, an object
- a condition, a situation, a relationship
- a mood, a memory, a feeling
- an image, an idea, an insight
- an issue, an activity, a theory, a belief.

Possible treatments could be:

- the impression of a mind exploring an idea
- an apparently random approach in the course of which insight is gained
- the development of an unobtrusive narrative framework as a convenient device through which issues and experiences are reflected upon.

Whatever the topic or the approach taken, the central feature of the reflective essay will be its reflective quality.

It follows from what has been said above that certain types of writing cannot be accepted as reflective essays; in particular

- writing that is mainly transactional or argumentative in effect
- writing that is clearly in some other imaginative writing form, such as fiction
- writing that is merely an account of personal history.

Prose Fiction

In prose fiction, the range of subject matter and themes open to the writer is limitless, and there is great scope here for different forms of writing. The student may choose to produce, for example:

- a short story
- an extract, such as the opening, the conclusion or a key episode from an imaginary novel
- a focused piece of characterisation
- a monologue or dialogue
- a detailed description of an imaginary setting
- a series of diary entries
- an exchange of letters.

Whatever the subject matter or form chosen, candidates should be advised that the writing of fiction requires skill and control of the following features:

- a plot or clear narrative framework, centred on identifiable characters and leading to some kind of denouement
- a structure which shapes content and theme
- dialogue, imagery and symbolism
- a stance or tone, which, while not intrusive or obvious, demonstrates the writer's command of the material.

The choice of subject matter may include:

- a person, a place, an object
- an event, a situation, a relationship
- a discovery, a choice, a dilemma
- a prejudice, a delusion, an obsession
- a memory, an image, an insight
- an experience, an issue, an activity.

Fiction is primarily a means of aesthetic expression. It should be borne in mind, however, that it can serve many other functions and purposes, for example:

- to entertain, amuse
- to raise awareness of an issue
- to satirise
- to comment on the human condition.

Fiction writing allows candidates to choose from a wide variety of possible treatments, including the innovative and the experimental. The chosen treatment will depend to a large extent on the candidate's distinctive aim and imaginative grasp of theme and topic.

Poetry

Of all the genres, poetry allows the greatest freedom of subject matter and approach. It should be stressed, however, that it also calls for the greatest discipline and control.

Writing poetry involves much more than randomly chopping up prose into lines. Poetry should be recognisably different from prose in, for example:

- its choice and arrangement of words, lines and verses/stanzas
- the often surprising connections it makes between words
- its often condensed and heightened use of language
- its greater use of figurative language
- its deployment of sound and rhythm
- its often unconventional syntax and patterning of ideas and images.

When writing poetry, candidates should bear in mind the following considerations:

- a poem should present its topic in a striking and original way
- whatever the range and variety of its references and detail, the theme of a poem should be focused and unified through its imagery and structural control
- the poem should contain a clear sense of the writer's imaginative/emotional/intellectual involvement with the topic
- a poem should aim to engage the reader's imaginative/emotional/intellectual responses as fully as possible
- none of a poem's individual parts will seem unnecessary
- a poem's overall effect will be aesthetically pleasing.

For the writer of poetry, the choice of topic is limitless. For example, a poem may deal with:

- a person, a place, an object
- a condition, a situation, a relationship
- a mood, a memory, a feeling
- an image, an idea, an insight
- an experience, an issue, an activity.

Careful thought should be given to the appropriateness of stance and tone in the treatment of the topic; this will determine the entire structure of the poem.

Poetry offers great variety of layout and formal presentation. For example:

- a traditional metrical scheme
- a more modern rhythmic arrangement
- a regular verse/stanza form
- a recognised poetic form such as the sonnet
- a structured patterning that is determined by the poem's subject matter
- a visual shaping of text that is designed to be representative or symbolic as, for example, concrete poetry.

Drama

For writers of drama there is an equally wide range of choices—of topic, approach and form. In creating a dramatic script, however, candidates should demonstrate their understanding of the nature and potential of the genre. In particular, they should be able to:

- create characters who are credible, interesting and capable of provoking in the reader an intellectual and/or emotional response
- make effective use of dialogue—and other modes of communication (including non-verbal modes such as gesture, body-language)
- establish a setting in which, and a situation out of which, the drama will arise
- develop and communicate a recognisable theme, a centre of interest that will give point to the script
- produce a particular effect, mood or atmosphere
- demonstrate familiarity with the requirements of script layout and presentation
- convince the reader of the potential of the script for dramatic realisation in an appropriate medium, ensuring always that stage directions, technical effects and other production notes are directly linked to the action.

A dramatic script may prove an effective vehicle for the treatment of a wide range of topics:

- an event, a situation, a relationship
- an argument, a conflict, a misunderstanding
- a discovery, a choice, a dilemma
- a prejudice, a delusion, an obsession
- a mood, a memory, a feeling.

Among the many possible approaches are:

- a dramatic monologue
- an opening scene of a play
- a complete one-act play
- a play for radio
- a television sit-com
- a storyboard, a shooting script, a film-script
- a documentary drama.

5. Guidance on Learning and Teaching Approaches

Whatever the candidate's choices, creative writing should be systematically taught. Such teaching should focus on the regular production and appraisal of pieces of writing throughout the unit. The aim of the unit should be to assist candidates to compose pieces which satisfy them as writers.

Candidates are encouraged to make use of a wide range of different language forms and, in particular, Scottish language should be used where appropriate.

6. Guidance on Approaches to Assessment

In order to achieve the unit outcome, each of the four pieces of writing that candidates are required to produce must meet:

- all of the evidence requirements
- all of the performance criteria.

As assessment is an integral part of the learning and teaching process, candidates should undertake a number of activities for formative purposes.

7. Length

Candidates must take seriously the specified minimum length. Other than poetry, where length should be appropriate to subject and form, each piece should be at least 1000 words in length. In order to achieve consistency in this area, teachers/lecturers and candidates should note that pieces of creative writing which fail to satisfy the specified minimum length will disqualify candidates from achieving the outcome and consequently the unit. Where pieces of creative writing are submitted for external course assessment, candidates will be required to indicate on the Creative Writing Folio Flyleaf the actual number of words used in each piece.

8. Authentication

Although only final versions of the four pieces of creative writing are required for summative assessment (the best two of which, in different genres, may be submitted for external course assessment), teachers/lecturers should retain earlier drafts as evidence of authenticity.

Candidates will be required to sign a declaration that the pieces of creative writing they submit are their own work, and teachers/lecturers responsible for the supervision of candidates will also be required to indicate that, to the best of their knowledge, the pieces of creative writing submitted are the candidates' own work.

SECTION 2 WHAT IS REQUIRED OF MARKERS

What is required of markers is the exercise of professional judgement of the quality of candidate performance in the context of SQA procedural requirements with which they must comply.

A. SQA PROCEDURAL REQUIREMENTS

The most significant of these are that markers must:

- attend the meeting of markers—convened to clarify the procedures to be followed and to establish the standards to be applied in the course of their marking
- take personal responsibility for assessing each creative writing folio allocated to them—fairly and consistently in accordance with the guidance and exemplars provided at the meeting of markers
- follow SQA instructions—for checking that they have received the appropriate scripts reporting any anomalies or irregularities in their allocation recording clearly and accurately the marks they have awarded keeping a record of marks awarded returning scripts, marks sheets, marks sheet substitutes, PA referral sheets and any other necessary materials within notified deadlines
- provide SQA with a report—outlining the principal features of candidate performance and drawing attention to any other matters of assessment or procedure they consider relevant.

B. TECHNICAL MATTERS CONCERNING THE VALIDITY OF SUBMISSIONS

The key statement concerning the validity of pieces of writing submitted for external assessment occurs in the National Course Specification and is as follows:

“In relation to English: Creative Writing, candidates will be subject to the following external assessment requirements:

- by the date of the examination, candidates will be required to submit to SQA, as a component of course assessment, a folio comprising two pieces of creative writing in different genres, authenticated as having been produced in a manner that satisfies the evidence requirements of the unit.”

Several matters arise with regard to validity in the light of this statement

1. Number of pieces submitted

There should really be no grounds for uncertainty or confusion on the part of teachers/lecturers or candidates about what is meant by “two pieces of creative writing”. It should be noted, however, that in Advanced Higher it is no longer possible to submit, as it was in CSYS, a group of poems, thematically related or otherwise. The requirement is for the submission of a “poem”. Whatever form the submission of poetry takes, therefore, it must display the constraining integrity of a single piece of work and be assessed accordingly. Similar restrictions apply to submissions in other genres: each submission, however constructed (a series of diary entries, an exchange of letters, different scenes in a play, a series of monologues) must represent a single “piece of creative writing”.

Where only one piece of creative writing is submitted, it should be marked in the normal way, but weighted to represent a mark out of 15 (50% of the 30 marks available).

Where more than two pieces of creative writing are submitted, the marker should assess only the first two (in the order in which they are recorded on the flyleaf). The remaining piece(s) should be ignored.

Any folio containing only one or more than two pieces should be referred to the Principal Assessor.

2. Length

Matters here are very clear.

“Each piece of creative writing, poetry excepted, must be at least 1000 words in length. The length of a piece of poetry will depend on the chosen form but should be sufficient to permit demonstration of all the performance criteria”.

There is no flexibility here. Either a piece of creative writing is valid in terms of length (and can be accepted for external assessment) or it is not (and cannot therefore be accepted).

Pieces of creative writing which fail to satisfy minimum length requirements should be marked in the normal way and referred to the Principal Assessor.

Markers should note that there is no maximum length restriction. The expectation is that for external assessment candidates will produce work in the categories of reflective essay, prose fiction and drama that is of appropriate length. Nevertheless, it would be useful to have information on the typical length of submissions. Markers are, therefore, asked to include in the Marker’s Report any significant data on length evident in their allocations.

Pieces of creative writing which markers consider to be unreasonably long should be marked in the normal way (they may well be self-penalising) and referred to the Principal Assessor.

3. Authentication

Authentication of pieces of creative writing as “having been produced in a manner that satisfies the evidence requirements of the unit” (by means of declaratory signatures) must be included on the Creative Writing Folio Flyleaf. The absence of a candidate signature should be accepted (circumstances may have made this inevitable), but not the absence of a teacher/lecturer signature.

Any creative writing folio whose flyleaf is unsigned by the teacher/lecturer responsible for supervising its production (or whose authentication is in some other way in doubt) should be marked in the normal way and referred to the Principal Assessor.

4. Plagiarism

All creative writing may be considered to be to some extent derivative. This is to be expected, and markers should be careful not to penalise the efforts of candidates who are honestly drawing on the enrichment they have derived from the creative writing of others to inspire and inform their own. A minority, however, may attempt systematic plagiarism of a fairly audacious kind. Such plagiarism may be established if markers have access directly to the sources used by candidates. Plagiarism may also be detected from internal evidence—discontinuities in style, extreme variations in the quality of thought in different parts of the writing, obvious and elementary failure on the part of candidates to grasp the meaning of what they have written, miscellaneous gross absurdities and tell-tale blunders. Caution, of course, must be exercised in drawing conclusions exclusively from internal evidence. Nevertheless, markers have a responsibility to treat all candidates equally. In fairness, therefore, to the vast majority of honest candidates who have not engaged in plagiarism, those who have done so (or are seriously suspected of having done so) should be reported to SQA.

Any piece of creative writing in which plagiarism can be established with reference to actual sources (or in which plagiarism is suspected but cannot be proved by the marker) should be marked in the normal way and referred to the Principal Assessor.

C. THE CREATIVE WRITING MARKING SCHEME AND HOW TO USE IT

Markers should develop an understanding of the rationale of the marking scheme which they are required to apply and of the various considerations that have informed its construction.

1. The decision to use category descriptions

Markers will be familiar with the use of category descriptions from their experience of assessing the work of candidates in Revised Higher Grade and CSYS English.

The decision to continue to use category descriptions as the principal means of assessing candidate performance in Advanced Higher English is informed partly by the advantage to be gained from continuing with an already familiar system and partly by other considerations. Such a system, for example:

- offers validity and reliability through assessment procedures of proven fairness and robustness
- puts in place one means of facilitating articulation of standards between “old” and “new” curricular frameworks
- requires holistic assessment that rewards the actual attainment of each candidate within each assessment component by allocating each response to the category that best describes its overall quality
- allows for refinement of assessment by requiring the placing of each response at a particular point within the limited range of marks available for each category
- contributes to consistency of assessment by requiring repeated application of familiar and agreed statements of differentiated standards
- facilitates standardisation of assessment by providing clear evidence of degrees of severity or leniency of marker response and interpretation.

2. The decision to use numerically weighted category descriptions

The decision to use numbers rather than grades in external assessment has been taken

- to allow for the refinement of assessment judgements about the quality of each candidate response within each assessment component
- to facilitate the aggregation of assessment judgements in a form that fairly represents the overall attainment of each candidate across components
- to reveal the range and pattern of the performance of the total candidature in a way that enables final judgements to be made about appropriate threshold scores and mark ranges in the determination of final grade awards.

3. The construction of category descriptions

The starting point for the construction of category descriptions is the information on Performance Criteria and Indicators of Excellence for Creative Writing published in the Arrangements document. Key features of required performance are emboldened in the table below.

GRADE C Performance Criteria	GRADE A Indicators of Excellence At least 4 bullet points from at least two categories.
Content The central thematic concern emerges in a way that reveals thoughtfulness, insight, imagination. Structure The structure of the chosen form is exploited to achieve desired effects. Stance/tone/mood The stance adopted by the writer in relation to the reader and to the material is clear and appropriate; tone or mood is controlled and deliberate. Expression Style and language, including the use of techniques relevant to the genre, are deployed to achieve desired effects.	Content <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The central thematic concern emerges in a way that reveals a high degree of thoughtfulness, insight, imagination. Structure <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Skilful shaping and sequencing contribute significantly to impact. • The potential of the chosen form is exploited with a high degree of skill and imagination. Stance/tone/mood <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A distinctive authorial voice emerges. • Tone or mood is skilfully created and sustained. Expression <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Techniques relevant to the genre are deployed with resourcefulness and subtlety. • Style and language are deployed with skill and originality.

The words that best strike the note that is characteristic of competence of performance (equivalent to Grade C) at the level of Advanced Higher are:

- thoughtfulness
- insight
- imagination
- clear
- appropriate
- controlled
- deliberate.

At this level, excellence (equivalent to Grade A) is indicated by words such as:

- skilful
- distinctive
- sustained
- resourcefulness
- subtlety
- originality.

It may be relatively straightforward to find qualitative words that will differentiate—for each criterion—between candidate work that is competent (Grade C) and candidate work that is excellent (Grade A). It is clearly more difficult to find qualitative words to describe the range of performance (Grade B) that may lie between these two well-defined points.

The Arrangement document recognises this difficulty by noting: “Where the overall quality of a piece of work goes beyond the performance criteria for Grade C, but falls short of Grade A, it will attain Grade B. In this case, it may show only one or two of the A characteristics or it may show three or more of the indicators of excellence without reaching A quality for any”.

In response to this flexibility, the following external assessment framework of four “pass” categories and two “fail” categories has been adopted for the grading of candidate performance in each of the Advanced Higher English assessment components:

- Category 1 Excellent—well aligned with a significant number of the published indicators of excellence.
- Category 2 Still signs of excellence—but not quite so well aligned with (or aligned with fewer of) the published indicators of excellence.
- Category 3 More than competent—in some significant ways beyond some of the published performance criteria.
- Category 4 Competent—in overall quality firmly anchored to the published performance criteria.
- Category 5 Less than competent—in some significant ways not quite achieving all of the published performance criteria.
- Category 6 Incompetent—well below Advanced Higher level as required by the published performance criteria.

A 30-point scale (corresponding to a weighting of 30% in the final award) has been adopted for the assessment of each of the two pieces of creative writing submitted for external assessment. It applies to these (briefly described) six categories as follows:

CATEGORY 1	30 29 28 27	Excellent —well aligned with a significant number of the published indicators of excellence: a high degree of thoughtfulness, insight, imagination; evidence of resourcefulness and subtlety, skill and originality.
CATEGORY 2	26 25 24 23	Still signs of excellence —but not quite so well aligned with (or aligned with fewer of) the published indicators of excellence: not quite such a high degree of thoughtfulness, insight, imagination; not quite so resourceful or subtle or skilful or original.
CATEGORY 3	22 21 20 19	More than competent —in some significant ways beyond some of the published performance criteria: glimmers of a high degree of thoughtfulness, insight, imagination; occasionally resourceful or subtle or skilful or original.
CATEGORY 4	18 17 16 15	Competent —in overall quality firmly anchored to the published performance criteria: thoughtfulness, insight, imagination; clear and appropriate; controlled and deliberate.
CATEGORY 5	14 13 12 11	Less than competent —in some significant ways not quite achieving all of the published performance criteria: some weakness in—thoughtfulness or insight or imagination or clarity or appropriateness or control.
CATEGORY 6	10 09 08 07 06 05 04 03 02 01 00	Incompetent —well below Advanced Higher level as required by the published performance criteria: deficient in (probably) more than one of— thoughtfulness, insight, imagination, clarity, appropriateness, control.

4. Using the Category Descriptions

The following (fully described) categories are founded on the published performance criteria and indicators of excellence for Creative Writing. They should be used as the basic “map” by which markers arrive at the category and the numerical mark within that category which best represents the attainment of each candidate.

CATEGORY 1

MARKS: 30—27

Excellent—well aligned with a significant number of the published indicators of excellence.

Content

- The central thematic concern emerges in a way that reveals a high degree of thoughtfulness, insight, imagination.

Structure

- Skilful shaping and sequencing contribute significantly to impact.
- The potential of the chosen form is exploited with a high degree of skill and imagination.

Stance/tone/mood

- A distinctive authorial voice emerges.
- Tone or mood is skilfully created and sustained.

Expression

- Techniques relevant to the genre are deployed with resourcefulness and subtlety.
- Style and language are deployed with skill and originality.

CATEGORY 2

MARKS: 23—26

Still signs of excellence—but not quite so well aligned with (or aligned with fewer of) the published indicators of excellence.

Content

As for Category 1, but

- there may not be quite such a high degree of thoughtfulness or insight or imagination in the way in which the central thematic concern emerges.

Structure

As for Category 1, but

- shaping and sequencing may not be quite so skilful or contribute so significantly to impact
- there may not be quite such a high degree of skill or imagination in exploiting the potential of the chosen form.

Stance/tone/mood

As for Category 1, but

- the authorial voice that emerges may not be quite so distinctive
- tone or mood may not be quite so well created or sustained.

Expression

As for Category 1, but

- techniques relevant to the genre may not be deployed with quite the same resourcefulness or subtlety
- style and language may not be deployed with quite the same skill or originality.

CATEGORY 3MARKS: 19—22

More than competent—in some significant ways beyond some of the published performance criteria.

Content

As for Category 4, but with glimmers of—a high degree of thoughtfulness or insight or imagination in the way in which the central thematic concern emerges.

Structure

As for Category 4, but with glimmers of—skilful shaping or sequencing or skill or imagination in the handling of the chosen form.

Stance/tone/mood

As for Category 4, but with glimmers of—the emergence of a distinctive authorial voice or of tone or mood being skilfully created or sustained.

Expression

As for Category 4, but with glimmers of—resourcefulness or subtlety or skill or originality in the deployment of style or language or techniques relevant to the genre.

CATEGORY 4MARKS: 15—18

Competent—in overall quality firmly anchored to the published performance criteria.

Content

The central thematic concern emerges in a way that reveals thoughtfulness, insight, imagination.

Structure

The structure of the chosen form is exploited to achieve desired effects.

Stance/tone/mood

The stance adopted by the writer in relation to the reader and to the material is clear and appropriate; tone or mood is controlled and deliberate.

Expression

Style and language, including the use of techniques relevant to the genre, are deployed to achieve desired effects.

CATEGORY 5MARKS: 11—14

Less than competent—in some significant ways not quite achieving all of the published performance criteria.

Content

As for Category 4, but with some weakness in—thoughtfulness or insight or imagination.

Structure

As for Category 4, but with some weakness in—exploitation of the structure of the chosen form or achievement of desired effects.

Stance/tone/mood

As for Category 4, but with some weakness in—clarity or appropriateness of stance or control of tone or mood.

Expression

As for Category 4, but with some weakness in—style or language or use of techniques relevant to the genre.

CATEGORY 6MARKS: 00—10

Incompetent—well below Advanced Higher level as required by the published performance criteria.

Content

The piece of creative writing is deficient in—thoughtfulness or insight or imagination.

Structure

The piece of creative writing is deficient in—exploitation of the structure of the chosen form or achievement of desired effects.

Stance/tone/mood

The piece of creative writing is deficient in—clarity or appropriateness of stance or control of tone or mood.

Expression

The piece of creative writing is deficient in—style or language or techniques relevant to the genre.

N.B. It should be noted that, in the category descriptions provided, where performance in one category is described as “significantly” different from performance in an adjacent category, this may be demonstrated by:

- marginally stronger or weaker performance in a range of aspects or
- very much stronger or weaker performance in one or two aspects.

Several factors should be taken into account before assigning each piece of creative writing to a particular numerical mark within a particular category.

- (a) Categories are not grades. Although derived from the performance criteria for Grade C and the indicators of excellence for Grade A, the six categories are designed primarily to assist with the placing of each candidate response at an appropriate point on a continuum of achievement. Assumptions about final grades or association of final grades with particular categories should not be allowed to get in the way of objective assessment.
- (b) The expectation is that the vast majority of candidates will already have demonstrated in unit assessment a level of competence that has merited achievement of the unit outcome. Markers should begin, therefore, with the expectation that each piece of creative writing will meet, at least, the requirements of category 4. While there may be some pieces that for various reasons fail to demonstrate the level of competence required by category 4, the likelihood is that they will prove characteristic of category 5—and it is hoped that no piece of creative writing will be so incompetent as to require assignment to category 6.

Any piece of creative writing which is assigned to Category 6 should be referred to the Principal Assessor.

- (c) For each category, a range of marks is available within which markers may refine their assessments, for example within a mark or two at the upper end, the middle or the lower end of the category. The marks range within each category should prove sufficiently generous to allow markers scope for fair and justifiable discrimination. Markers are encouraged to make full use of the ranges of marks available to them.
- (d) Mixed profiles of attainment will occur. Normally, these will represent variations within the range of performance that is characteristic of a particular category. In some instances, however, performance may be so uneven as to require markers to weigh up strengths and weaknesses of performance that extend across categories. Markers are reminded that their assessment should at all times be holistic—assigning each piece of creative writing to the category (and to the numerical point within that category) that best describes its overall achievement. In instances where there is genuine doubt as to whether a piece of writing should be placed at the lower end of a higher category or at the upper end of a lower category (and only in such instances), candidates should be given the benefit of the doubt, and their submission awarded the lowest mark in the higher category.

Any piece of creative writing which presents such a mixed profile of attainment (or some other such difficulty) that it cannot be assessed fairly in terms of the category descriptions should be referred to the Principal Assessor—with explanation of the nature of the difficulty encountered and with justification of the numerical mark awarded.

- (e) Within the flyleaf, against the title of each piece of creative writing, a mark out of 30 should be entered. The two marks thus noted should be added together then divided by two. The resultant mark (representing the total attainment of the candidate out of 30) should be entered in the Mark box on the front of the flyleaf and against the candidate's name on the Marks Sheet. Resultant half marks should be rounded up.

- (f) NO ANNOTATIONS OR COMMENTS SHOULD BE ADDED TO THE SUBMISSIONS OF CANDIDATES (including flyleaf forms). The entry of a mark (which carries its own meaning in terms of the category descriptions provided) is all that is required—and all that is permitted.
- (g) All referrals to the Principal Assessor concerning the validity of submissions or difficulties encountered in the assessment of submissions must be clearly identified by writing the letters PA in two places:
- on the front of the Creative Writing Folio Flyleaf immediately below the boxes marked FOR OFFICIAL USE
 - beside the candidate's name on the Attendance Register/Marks Sheet.
- For each referral thus identified, a PA Referral Sheet must be completed.
- (h) PA Referral Sheets and the Marker's Report (not, in any circumstances, the submissions of candidates) should be used as the sole means of communication between the marker and the Principal Assessor.
- (i) The Marker's Report should include comment on
- the main features of the performance of candidates
 - the validity and reliability of the marking scheme
 - the manageability of SQA procedural requirements
 - any other matters considered relevant by the marker.

[END OF MARKING INSTRUCTIONS]