Les Cuisiniers des Banlieues

Alain Ducasse et Thierry Marx vont chercher dans les quartiers défavorisés leurs talents de demain. Une réponse à la crise du recrutement, mais surtout une vision de la cuisine comme moyen d'intégration.

Halima, 45 ans, une aide-comptable au chômage, vivait à Sarcelles, dans une banlieue pauvre de Paris. La vie souriait peu à cette Algérienne, issue de l'immigration. Or voici qu'un jour de printemps, Halima apprit qu'un certain Alain Ducasse, chef cuisinier, voulait recruter quinze femmes de Sarcelles. Halima fut embauchée, à sa grande stupéfaction. Comment imaginer qu'elle

- 5 se retrouverait aujourd'hui à préparer langoustines rôties, homard en carapace ou foie gras de canard confit? Elle n'en finit pas d'être reconnaissante à celui qui, avec son projet Quinze femmes en avenir, a bouleversé sa vie. Ainsi, aujourd'hui, elle a quitté sa banlieue et réside dans un appartement plus confortable du centre de Paris. Tandis que l'ascenseur la conduit gracieusement au 2ème étage de la tour Eiffel, l'apprentie cuisinière contemple la féerie des lumières de la ville
10 qui se déploie sous ses yeux. Elle rejoindra le Jules Verne, le très chic restaurant panoramique de la Tour Eiffel.

Mais, il est plutôt rare qu'un grand chef cuisinier tel Alain Ducasse, qui est à la tête d'un empire gastronomique de 1600 employés, 25 restaurants et trois hôtels de luxe, se penche sur le sort de femmes d'une banlieue pauvre de Paris. Ducasse raconte comment il a voulu faire le lien entre la 15 banlieue et l'excellence en s'engageant pour les femmes en particulier «car ce sont celles qui souffrent le plus de discriminations.» A l'issue de leur formation, ces femmes seront embauchées dans les établissements de luxe où elles auront fait leur apprentissage. Certaines apprenties auront même la possibilité de devenir chef dans des cuisines à Londres!

Thierry Marx, autre star de la cuisine française, s'est aussi engagé à améliorer la vie des habitants des banlieues pauvres. Convaincu que «la cuisine de rue (sandwicheries, pizzerias, kebabs, etc), en tant qu'artisanat de qualité, peut aider à l'intégration», cet enfant, également issu d'un quartier pauvre, créa alors son Atelier de cuisine mobile. L'atelier fonctionne à merveille, en apportant, sur place et en huit semaines, certes un diplôme mais aussi des conseils et une aide financière à de jeunes demandeurs d'emploi pour monter leur petite entreprise. «La cuisine les aide, parce qu'elle parle au cœur des gens. La cuisine, c'est tellement universel! C'est la magie de ce métier», poursuit celui qui a grandi dans une des cités de Champigny-sur-Marne, «bien placé dans le hit-parade des quartiers pourris.»

Le grand rêve de Thierry Marx est aujourd'hui de fonder, en région parisienne, un centre de formation rapide qui créerait de l'élite : «Dans les quartiers pauvres, ceux qui ont réussi attirent
30 toujours l'attention des employeurs. Devenir chef, c'est devenir quelqu'un d'important dans la société. Il faut impulser chez les jeunes une envie de ressembler à quelqu'un.»

Le jeune chef d'origine algérienne Akrame Benallal, 29 ans, reste une exception en France. Il est aujourd'hui à la tête du restaurant parisien Confidentiel et vient d'être sacré «talent de demain» par les guides gastronomiques qui lui donnent quatre étoiles. Il est en train de rejoindre les 35 grands chefs français au firmament des stars. Lui aussi dit : «Il m'arrive aujourd'hui quelque chose de merveilleux . . . »

Le grand chef Alain Ducasse regrette profondément l'attitude générale envers la gastronomie* dans les banlieues : «Pourquoi la cuisine française ferait-elle rêver à l'autre bout du monde, et pas dans nos banlieues?» Et ce, alors même que le milieu de la cuisine est un moyen formidable

- 40 pour les jeunes de banlieue de sortir de leur milieu défavorisé. En fait, c'est l'un des meilleurs qui soient, car on peut monter très rapidement dans la hiérarchie et le salaire.
- «La France est un pays dont la cuisine vient d'être classée au Patrimoine mondial de l'Unesco, mais l'ironie suprême est que les restaurateurs français manquent cruellement de personnel qualifié. Pour cette raison, sur 60 000 emplois potentiels, seulement la moitié sont pourvus, faute 45 de main d'œuvre», explique Régis Marcon. Ce dernier, un chef comme Thierry Marx et Alain Ducasse, «s'est fait tout seul» en commençant par reprendre le café-bar de son père dans le village de son enfance. Sa stratégie est de cibler les jeunes des banlieues défavorisées en leur donnant une image positive du monde du travail et en leur démontrant que cuisinier est une profession qui a de l'avenir.
- 50 Les grands chefs tentent donc aussi de répondre à une pénurie alarmante de personnel. Mais il y a avant tout chez eux, estime le sociologue Jean-Pierre Corbeau, «la conviction que l'art de la cuisine est d'une grande importance pour les gens car il éveille les sens comme le goût et l'odorat. De plus, ils sont persuadés que travailler en équipe dans les cuisines de grands chefs est un facteur d'intégration sociale. Ce travail donne une voix aux émotions d'un jeune de banlieue.
- 55 Ainsi il trouve sa place dans la société où il devient un exemple dans son milieu social. La gastronomie développe la capacité d'intégration sociale».

La cuisine va donc contribuer à sauver les banlieues, surtout si, comme l'espère Ducasse, son projet suscite d'autres vocations. En attendant, Halima continue de prendre cet ascenseur qui l'emmène au restaurant Jules Verne au 2ème étage de la Tour Eiffel. Cette année, Noël sera pour 60 elle – et pour ses enfants – le plus beau des Noëls. En plus des jouets dont ils rêvent et qu'elle sera pour la première fois en mesure de leur offrir, leur mère veut concocter un menu de fête: langoustines, carré d'agneau et mousse au chocolat . . .

*La gastronomie = cooking, fine dining

General marking principles for Advanced Higher French Reading and Translation

Always apply these general principles. Use them in conjunction with the detailed marking instructions, which identify the key features required in candidates' responses.

- (a) Always use positive marking. This means candidates accumulate marks for the demonstration of relevant skills, knowledge and understanding; marks are not deducted for errors or omissions.
- (b) If a candidate response does not seem to be covered by either the principles or detailed marking instructions, and you are uncertain how to assess it, you must seek guidance from your team leader.
- (c) Award a mark for each answer. Marks are not transferable between questions and the answers for each question must come from the item.
- (d) Marks are available as follows:
  - (i) The first set of questions (worth 23 marks) in Section 1 asks candidates to provide answers based on comprehension of information from the text. There are generally 1–4 marks available for each question.
  - (ii) The last question in Section 1 is the overall purpose question, and candidates must identify the overall purpose of the text and draw meaning from their overall understanding of the text. There is a maximum of 7 marks available for reference to the text and detailed comment. Pegged mark descriptors (5/3/1) and associated commentary are available, along with further guidance, in the detailed marking instructions.
  - (iii) Section 2 is the translation question (worth 20 marks). For this question candidates must translate the underlined section of the text. The section for translation is divided into ten sense units. For each sense unit, award 2, 1 or 0 marks: 2 marks for a full translation, 1 for partial translation and 0 for an unsuccessful attempt.
- (e) Award marks according to the accuracy and relevance of the candidate's answers. Award marks where the answer is accurate but expressed in their own words.

Question		Expected response(s)	Max mark	Additional guidance
7.		Possible answers include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>The purpose of the writer is to inform about this subject in a positive light.</li> <li>The writer clearly portrays a positive image of the role of chefs in French society. From the very beginning of the article, a connection is made between success and the «banlieue». For example, in the introduction, the negative concept of the «quartiers défavorisés» is counter-balanced by the description of the budding chefs as «talents de demain».</li> <li>Gastronomy is consistently linked with the positive concept of helping social integration, for example in the introduction, lines 48–51 and lines 60–61; and the fact that lines 43–44 are spoken by the chef Alain Ducasse and lines 56–61 are quoted from the sociologist Jean-Pierre Corbeau gives weight and credence to this point of view as they come from different career backgrounds and are acknowledged experts in their fields.</li> <li>There is much use of symbolism to suggest that the inhabitants of deprived areas can improve their lives through participation in the chefs' programmes: Halima takes the lift, which symbolises the social ladder, to the second floor of the Eiffel Tower (paragraph one) and again in the final paragraph thus rounding off the article neatly on a symbolically 'high' note.</li> <li>There is another reference to the word «ascenseur» when Ducasse refers to cooking as a way of rising up the social hierarchy and achieving success. The idea of reaching the stars/heavens through a career in gastronomy is also alluded to when Akrame Benallal is described as reaching the ranks of top French chefs «au firmament des stars». The use of the word «firmament» is significant as it is quite poetic and literary and suggests very meaningful progress and success.</li> </ul>	7	Pegged marks	Criteria
			7 OR 5	The candidate provides a clear, concise and reflective answer, drawing inferences which are entirely appropriate, analytical and which demonstrate a sophisticated and accurate reading of the text. The answer clearly relates to the advice given in the Expected response(s) column, or any other equally appropriate response.
			3 OR 1	The candidate provides an answer which may contain some degree of misreading, but which offers evidence of appropriate inferencing skills. The candidate may, however, tend to supply information from the text with little attempt to draw inferences.
			0	The candidate's answer simply provides information to be found in the text with no attempt to draw inferences.

Question	Expected response(s)	Max mark	Additional guidance
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• The title of the text «étoiles montantes» also links in with the idea of cooking being a vehicle for upward social mobility and success.</li> <li>• Halima working on the second floor of the Eiffel Tower, the iconic monument most closely associated with France suggests that Halima, Algerian by origin, has become integrated into French society through participating in the programme. The name of the restaurant, Jules Verne, also suggests an exciting voyage of discovery, an adventure upon which she is embarking.</li> <li>• There are allusions to fairy tale motifs to suggest the transformative effects of the chefs' initiatives on the lives of inhabitants in deprived areas: Halima contemplates the «féeerie de lumières» from the second floor of the Eiffel Tower, the fairy tale world which stretches before her. For the first time she is able to provide her children with their dream gifts and fancy dishes. This reminds us of the happy ends often found in fairy tales: from rags to riches. The writer clearly wants to finish the article on a very positive point.</li> <li>• Lengthy quotations from chefs and a sociologist lend weight to the idea that the chefs' initiatives can change the lives of the inhabitants of deprived areas for the better.</li> <li>• The writer's reference to the fine and sophisticated dishes in the third and final paragraphs suggests a newly prosperous existence for Halima through her participation in the programme.</li> <li>• But at the same time, the writer wants to convey the positive idea that cooking is universal: as Thierry Marx comments, «La cuisine, ( . . . ) kebabs . . . » It thus serves as a metaphor for integration in French society, drawing together people of diverse origins and social standing.</li> </ul> Accept any other pertinent/relevant points.
