Accommodation Arrangements

The accommodation arrangements form should be completed by following these instructions and notes, which should be retained in your centre. The form should be used by your SQA Co-ordinator and Chief Invigilator to determine the number of invigilators you require and to record details of the accommodation to be used.

Instructions

- Enter the total number of candidates in the appropriate column alongside the papers concerned. If you have FE and adult candidates, the number must include these.
- Enter the number of candidates to be accommodated in each room, and include details of instances where candidates with assessment arrangements require separate accommodation.
- Enter the total number of rooms in use. This should be the maximum number of rooms in use at any one time during each morning or afternoon session. Each room should be uniquely identified throughout the examination period (eg A for Assembly Hall, B for Library). The same identification symbols should not be used for different rooms on other days.
- Calculate the number of Invigilators required and enter this in the appropriate column. The number should be calculated based on the following:
 - ♦ One Invigilator for each examination room. You must add an invigilator for each group of 35 candidates, or part-group if the number of candidates is not an exact multiple of 35.
 - ♦ The Chief Invigilator will be expected to undertake invigilator duties when only one room is being used and the number of invigilators required is three or less. If more than one room is being used and/or the number of invigilators required is four or more, the Chief Invigilator should not invigilate so that they are free for overall supervision.
 - ♦ When five or more invigilators are required, one of the invigilators should act as Depute Chief Invigilator but should still invigilate.
 - ♦ When ten or more invigilators are required, the Depute Chief Invigilator should not invigilate but should be free to assist the Chief Invigilator, and an additional Invigilator used.

Notes

- You should use as few rooms as possible, particularly when accommodating examinations that start at the same time.
- When accommodating examinations with different finishing times in the same room, you must take into account that candidates finishing their exam at an earlier time could disturb those still working. All candidates being examined at the same level in a course should be seated in the same room. If this is not possible, you must ensure that candidates whose names appear on the same Attendance Register are not separated.
- Where approval has been given for candidates to sit examinations at times different to the official timetable, the proposed arrangements should be clearly indicated against the examination paper(s) concerned, and the Chief Invigilator should be advised accordingly. If any such arrangements are found to be unnecessary at a later date, the Chief Invigilator should be informed so that the invigilation arrangements can be amended.
- An * after the time of the examination indicates that candidates in these examinations will need to be accommodated separately from candidates in other examinations. The possibility of noisy activities in other rooms should be considered when making accommodation arrangements.
- Different Invigilators can be used for morning and afternoon examinations.
- Invigilators are only employed to supervise candidates during the period of their examinations, in the actual examination rooms. The supervision of candidates who are isolated because of examinations set at times other than those indicated in the official timetable is the responsibility of the presenting centre.
