

Graeme Hyslop Masterclass

The masterclass offered by Graeme reflected on the college perspective on future qualifications and assessment. Graeme discussed work undertaken by Principals and Scottish Government using horizons techniques to analyse future business development and business risks.

Biography

Graeme has been Principal of Langside College, Glasgow, since 1999.

Initially he worked as a lecturer and senior lecturer at Reid Kerr College in Paisley before becoming a further education officer with Strathclyde Regional Council where he was responsible for strategic planning, European Structural Funds and adult education.

In 2006 he was elected by fellow principals in Scotland to serve on the Board of the Association of Scotland's Colleges.

With respect to European Structural Funds in Scotland, Graeme has been a member of the Western Scotland Objective 2 Programme Monitoring Committee for the 2000-2006 Programme, the National Objective 3 Board for the 2000-2006 Programme and is presently a member of the Lowlands and Uplands Scotland Programme Monitoring Committee for the 2007-2013 Programme.

Graeme was a member of the original Curriculum for Excellence group and is more recently a member of Curriculum for Excellence Programme Board.
