Introduction

These support notes are not mandatory. They provide advice and guidance on approaches to delivering and assessing the Communication: Listening and Responding to Scottish Texts Unit. They are intended for teachers and lecturers who are delivering this Unit. They should be read in conjunction with:

- ◆ the Unit Specification
- ◆ the Unit Assessment Support pack

General guidance on the Unit

Aims

The aim of this Unit is to provide learners with opportunities to listen to Scottish texts and to respond by communicating ideas, opinions and/or information about these texts.

The Unit also provides a framework for learners to develop knowledge and skills for learning, skills for life and skills for work.

Progression into this Unit

Entry to this Unit is at the discretion of the centre.

This Unit has been designed to draw on and build on Curriculum for Excellence experiences and outcomes.

This Unit would be suitable for learners who have successfully completed qualifications in related areas at SCQF level 1. Relevant experiences and outcomes may also provide an appropriate basis for doing this Unit.

Skills, knowledge and understanding covered in this Unit

If this Unit is being delivered on a free-standing basis, teachers and lecturers are free to select the skills, knowledge, understanding and contexts which are most appropriate for delivery in their centres.

Learners who complete this Unit will be able to listen and respond to Scottish texts.

Progression from this Unit

This Unit may provide progression to:

- ◆ other Units in Communication at SCQF level 1
- ◆ Units of the English and Communication Course at SCQF level 2
- ◆ further study, employment and/or training

Further details about these Units can be found on SQA's website.

Learners may progress to other Units at the same level or Units and at higher levels. The nature of this progression will depend on the individual needs of the learner.

Approaches to learning, teaching and assessment

The purpose of this section is to provide general advice and guidance on approaches to learning, teaching and assessment which can be used for the delivery of this Unit.

Learners undertaking qualifications at SCQF level 1 will take part in the Unit at different levels of participation and with varying degrees of support, all of which meet the Assessment Standards. Some learners may take part at an experiential or sensory level requiring full support. Some may require frequent direction and support to enable them to take part, while others may take part independently or with intermittent support.

Learners should be given as much support as they need to engage with learning, teaching and assessment activities whilst maintaining the integrity of the Outcome and Assessment Standards.

The level of support required, and any support framework used, is at the discretion of individual centres.

The skills-based focus of the Unit lends itself to the use of a variety of learning and teaching approaches, reflecting the values and principles of the curriculum. Effective learning and teaching will draw on a variety of approaches to enrich the experience of learners. In particular, a mix of approaches which provide opportunities for personalisation and choice will help to motivate and challenge learners.

Learning should be relevant to the learner's everyday life, their overall learning programme, and/or work and leisure. Teachers/lecturers could also consider interdisciplinary and cross-curricular approaches to learning and teaching and explore how extra-curricular activities or the personal interests of learners could be included and recognised.

Learners should be given the opportunity to use their normal mode of communication and have access to the appropriate resources for support where they would normally be available in real-life situations in which the activity is being carried out.

Examples of learning and teaching approaches and ways of recording evidence are provided in the table on the next page.

Communication: Listening and Responding to Scottish Texts (National 1)

Outcome 1

With the appropriate level of support and resources, the learner will listen and respond to Scottish texts by:

Assessment Standards

Guidance and suggested learning and teaching approaches

1.1 Conveying information about the main idea (s) in the given text

Texts can be fiction and/or non-fiction, and should be appropriate for reading aloud/playing to learners. Examples could include: extracts from stories, signed stories, poems, plays, instructions, webcasts, news items, film clips, TV/radio programmes, audio materials/clips, picture or visual stories/books.

Texts could relate to: 'real-life' situations, hobbies and interests, work experience, leisure activities, local issues, cross-curricular activities and events (eg fairs/festivals/coffee mornings/shows and concerts/ fundraising).

Texts should be in a Scottish context, eg texts written by Scottish writers, set in Scotland and/or containing Scottish language and/or dialect.

1.2 Expressing an opinion about the given text

Learners' responses could include: responding to prompt questions, preparing a storyboard and/or a picture board accompanied by text, producing a drawing, producing a piece of creative writing.

For example, the learner listens to an extract from a story (written by a Scottish writer) which is read aloud or signed by the teacher/lecturer. The learner then contributes to a small group discussion on the story or takes part in a paired conversation with the teacher/lecturer about the story. The learner's contribution could be stimulated by the use of prompt questions such as:

- ◆ What was the story about?
- ◆ Who was/were the main character(s)?

- ◆ Did you find the story sad/funny/scary?

Alternatively, the learner listens to a Scottish news item which is played by the teacher/lecturer. The learner then contributes to a small group discussion on the item or takes part in a paired conversation with the teacher/lecturer about the item. The learner's contribution could be stimulated by the use of prompt questions such as:

- ◆ What was the event?
- ◆ Where did the event take place? (eg Scottish city/town)
- ◆ Did you find the item funny/sad?

A range of assistive aids could be used to support learners when answering these questions, for example: talking mats, choice boards, augmentative assistive communication, a set of pictures, etc.

Assessment

There is no external assessment for National 1 Units. All Units are internally assessed against the requirements outlined and described in the Unit Specification and the Unit Assessment Support pack.

To achieve the Unit, learners must pass the Unit Outcome.

At SCQF level 1, it is anticipated that most evidence for assessment purposes will be gathered on a naturally occurring, on-going basis, rather than from more formal assessment methods. There are many contexts that might be used for gathering evidence. These might include, for example, extra-curricular and/or outdoor learning.

Naturally occurring evidence is evidence which occurs within and as part of the learning and teaching, and can be gathered for assessment purposes in a variety of ways. Examples of how evidence might be gathered include:

- ◆ observation of evidence demonstrated during an activity (using an observation checklist, visual recording, photography or equivalent)
- ◆ oral questioning before, during and on completion of an activity (recorded using an audio-visual or audio recording or using detailed written assessor notes as evidence)
- ◆ learning and teaching activities which generate physical evidence for assessment
- ◆ identifying opportunities to record evidence within out-of-centre activities

Centres are encouraged to develop criteria for success which focus on small, well-defined steps in learning. In this way the learner is more likely to achieve success in the Unit and in any subsequent learning.

Learners will benefit from receiving accurate and regular feedback regarding their learning. This helps to ensure they are actively involved in the assessment process. It is also important that different approaches to assessment are adopted to suit the varying needs of learners.

Authentication

For guidance on authentication of evidence that is gathered outwith the direct supervision of the teacher/lecturer responsible for the learner, eg outside the school or classroom, refer to SQA's Guide to Assessment.

It is important that teachers/lecturers track and keep accurate records of their assessments in order to:

- ◆ inform learners of their progress
- ◆ identify where further consolidation is required
- ◆ retain and store, in an appropriate manner, evidence of work in progress and completed work for verification purposes

It is anticipated that learners will need a high degree of teacher/lecturer assistance. More details about the type of support are provided within the Equality and inclusion section.

Developing skills for learning, skills for life and skills for work

The Unit Specification lists the skills for learning, skills for life and skills for work that learners should develop in this Unit. These are based on SQA's Skills Framework: Skills for Learning, Skills for Life and Skills for Work and should be built into the Unit where there are appropriate opportunities. The level of these skills will be appropriate to the level of the Unit.

Skills for learning, skills for life and skills for work	Examples of learning and teaching approaches
1 Literacy
1.3 Listening and talking Listening means the ability to understand and interpret ideas, opinions and information presented orally for a purpose and within a context, drawing on non-verbal communication as appropriate. Talking means the ability to communicate orally ideas, opinions and information for a purpose and within a context.	Where appropriate, learners could use their normal mode of communication during learning and teaching activities to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ◆ communicate, eg provide information about a given Scottish text ◆ respond, eg to a question asking their opinion of a given Scottish text

It is important that learners have opportunities to develop these broad general skills as an integral part of their learning experience.

There will be opportunities for the development of additional skills for learning, skills for life and skills for work throughout this Unit. These will vary from centre to centre depending on the approaches being used to deliver the Unit.

Equality and inclusion

The additional support needs of learners should be taken into account when planning learning experiences or when considering any reasonable adjustments that may be required. Assessment methods should offer all learners an equal opportunity to demonstrate their achievement. This should be reflected in the language used, the use of different assessment presentation methods and the use of appropriate illustrative materials that reflect an inclusive view.

Learners undertaking qualifications at SCQF level 1 are likely to require more support with their learning than at other levels. Learners should be given as much support as they need to engage with learning, teaching and assessment activities whilst maintaining the integrity of the Outcome and Assessment Standards.

Examples of support might include:

- ◆ allowing extra time to complete activities
- ◆ support ranging from prompting to full support from a responsible person
- ◆ the use of specialised and adapted equipment
- ◆ the use of ICT and other assistive technologies
- ◆ visual prompts

It is recognised that centres have their own duties under equality and other legislation and policy initiatives. The guidance given in these Unit Support Notes is designed to sit alongside these duties but is specific to the delivery and assessment of the Unit.

Alternative approaches to Unit assessment to take account of the specific needs of learners can be used. However, the centre must be satisfied that the integrity of the assessment is maintained and how the alternative approach to assessment will generate the necessary evidence of achievement.
