Writing -Study

Some students like working in a groups while others prefer to work alone. I believe working in a groups is better than studying or working alone, for some reasons.

Firstly, studying or working in a group can help you to communicate with different people with different ideas and skills. So, if all the members in a group share their ideas and skills you might learn more, not only about the group project but about other things also. Secondly, you will understand that each person has his or her own level of learning. Maybe there would be intelligent students in a group or the students who is not very good at that subject but all of them work together and help each other without expecting anything.

However, most students want to study or work individually because they think group studying or group work might distract them. Moreover, some of them think that groupwork is a waste of time, for because in a group everyone should talk or participate and if all of them talk or do something it will take lots of time. In addition, some students believe that studying or working alone can force you to do all your work by yourself and in that case you will improve your study level.

In conclusion, each person has her or his own skills to study or do something, but I believe the more you communicate the more you will learn.
