About PACE

Partnership Action for Continuing Employment (PACE), is the Scottish Government's initiative for responding to redundancy situations. It's a partnership of organisations dedicated to providing free and impartial advice, guidance and support during redundancy.

How PACE can help you... and your clients.

If you are a business recovery professional working with Scottish based clients, PACE support is available to help you.

PACE can take away some of the strain of dealing with redundancy, allowing you to concentrate on business recovery.

PACE support is free of charge and available to all employers, no matter the size of the business or how many employees are involved.

PACE Advisers have extensive experience of dealing with redundancy situations. They are available to visit companies affected by redundancy, to meet with staff and to offer free and impartial advice on a range of topics - from dealing with the stress of redundancy, to practical advice on job search and putting a CV together.

Getting in touch

Skills Development Scotland leads on the delivery of PACE on behalf of the Scottish Government along with a number of partners.
