Unit purpose

This unit enables learners to advance and develop their skills in acting, voice and movement. It provides opportunities for them to deepen their knowledge and skills of the acting process, including textual analysis, and encourages the physical awareness required in acting, voice and movement skills. Learners also reflect on and understand their own performance skills and develop their meta-skills.

We recommend the unit to learners who have completed Higher National Certificate (HNC) Acting and Performance at SCQF level 7 and who want to further advance and develop their acting skills.

Learners who complete the unit may wish to progress to further studies and seek work in the performing arts industry.

Unit outcomes

Learners who complete this unit can:

- 1 apply developed acting practices appropriate to styles required
- 2 demonstrate understanding of vocal apparatus, application and care
- 3 demonstrate advanced vocal techniques in a creative context
- 4 demonstrate understanding of movement styles, application and care
- 5 demonstrate advanced movement techniques in solo and group work
- 6 apply critical reflection and knowledge, highlighting awareness of skillset and practices

Evidence requirements

Learners must provide the following evidence:

Outcome 1

Learners apply developed acting practices appropriate to styles required. They must:

- ◆ provide evidence of research relating to their chosen acting practices and methods
- ◆ demonstrate their understanding and practically apply acting practices in workshops and rehearsals
- ◆ apply knowledge of acting methods in relation to text, stimulus and character development across all practices

Outcome 2

Learners understand vocal apparatus, application and care. They must :

- ◆ provide a diagnostic of their own vocal qualities, vocal apparatus and areas that impact positively and negatively on their vocal and speech production
- ◆ demonstrate at least two warm-up exercises designed to enhance and protect the voice to prepare the voice for two different performance spaces, styles or characterisations
- ◆ demonstrate a vocal practice designed to enhance confidence and ability, using their own authentic voice and addressing areas of concern

Outcome 3

Learners demonstrate advanced vocal techniques, confidence and dexterity across a range of texts. They must:

- ◆ participate in a minimum of two contrasting group performance events, applying vocal characterisation and intention in a creative context appropriate to style and method
- ◆ perform a solo voice programme, lasting between 4 and 6 minutes, demonstrating application and understanding of contrasting texts and/or stimuli, one of which should include an authentic or non-dramatic vocal

Outcome 4

Learners understand movement styles, application and care. They must:

- ◆ explore and demonstrate a minimum of two movement styles, showing adequate exploration of each movement style, incorporating appropriate steps, formations, gestures, dynamics, and timings
- ◆ demonstrate safe practice for movement work. This must involve learners having an awareness of their own individual needs and requirements for movement, and making sure that safe practice is adhered to at all times. This must include executing appropriate warm-ups and cool-downs, and monitoring and managing the body throughout all movement

Outcome 5

Learners demonstrate advanced movement techniques in solo and group work. They must:

- ◆ plan and prepare for a solo movement piece. Learners must select a theme, idea or stimulus for their solo movement sequence. They must structure their movement piece and include any movement components and compositional devices that enhance their performance
- ◆ perform a solo movement piece lasting a minimum of 2 minutes. Learners must demonstrate clear articulation of movement components and compositional devices
- ◆ work in a pair or group to collaborate, adapt, plan, prepare and produce a movement piece. The piece should be a minimum of 3 minutes, but can be longer if integrated with another unit

Outcome 6

Learners apply critical skills and knowledge, highlighting awareness of skillset and practices. They must:

- ◆ produce an e-portfolio that critically analyses and evaluates own skills development and highlights strengths, weaknesses and areas for development across the three disciplines of acting, voice and movement:
 - acting skills and characterisation
 - vocal qualities
 - movement skills
- ◆ conclude their portfolio with a reflective statement, presented orally or in writing, highlighting their personal strengths and weaknesses, and strategies for development

The standard of evidence should be consistent with the SCQF level of the unit.

- ◆ Industry and Audition Advanced Skills (SCQF level 8)

There are also opportunities to integrate and cross-assess with optional units.

Additional guidance

The guidance in this section is not mandatory.

Content and context for this unit

Apply developed acting practices appropriate to styles required (outcome 1)

Learners participate in a series of workshops and rehearsals that demonstrate and enhance their knowledge and understanding of acting methods through application to text. You should integrate this with Performance Skills: Advanced Application (SCQF level 8), so that learners can apply acting skills to stage-based work, devised work and screen-based work. These practices must be contrasting in style, allowing learners the opportunity to expand their performance vocabulary. You should particularly focus on learners' choice of vocal and physical qualities appropriate to their character, and encourage learners to expand their skills using techniques in voice and movement. Acting practices might include those of key practitioners, such as Stanislavski, Brecht, Bogart, Meisner, Uta Hagen, classical or other key practitioners, as appropriate.

You can integrate this outcome with work produced in Performance Skills: Advanced Application, and with work in audition preparation for Industry and Audition Advanced Skills.

Understand vocal apparatus, application and care (outcome 2)

The vocal diagnostic in this outcome should be practical and encourage critical self and/or peer reflection on vocal areas, including:

- ◆ throat focus
- ◆ vocal qualities
- ◆ tonal differentiation
- ◆ vocal energy linked to breathwork
- ◆ any outstanding areas of concern

You can link these to articulatory, pitch, tonal and/or other areas that learners might need to address to expand and develop their vocal production to performance requirements. You should encourage learners to listen to their own vocal practice, and research new methods and techniques designed to enhance their performance knowledge and ability. You should also encourage them to engage in reflective commentary on these processes.

Warm-up exercises can reflect the different vocal focus required for two different performance spaces, types and/or energies. Learners should demonstrate an understanding through taking part in class exercises.

You should discuss texts and the performative requirement for industry-related activity, for example:

- ◆ audio and podcasting
- ◆ performative vocals for radio drama
- ◆ stage and screen presenting and performing
- ◆ voice work to sell, entertain and inform across a range of media

- ◆ exercises and materials to enable them to work with natural, intimate, informational, as well as the dramatic, voice

Demonstrate advanced vocal techniques in a creative context (outcome 3)

Learners should work across a range of texts to demonstrate different vocal applications for performance events and a minimum of two contrasting performance spaces. Texts should include materials for natural, intimate, presentational and dramatic voice, and can be integrated with project work associated with other relevant units.

Learners should demonstrate effective research and delivery for a minimum of two contrasting dramatic characterisations. You can integrate this outcome with the other mandatory units, Performance Skills: Advanced Application, and Industry and Audition Advanced Skills.

Understand movement styles, application and care (outcome 4)

You should introduce learners to movement styles and explore and demonstrate a minimum of two. You can select any two styles, such as (but not limited to):

- ◆ contact improvisation
- ◆ butoh
- ◆ tai chi
- ◆ melodrama
- ◆ mime
- ◆ mask work
- ◆ clowning
- ◆ commedia dell'arte
- ◆ stage fighting
- ◆ contemporary movement
- ◆ choreography

Learners should demonstrate an understanding of styles through taking part in class exercises where they experience and practise each style and its components. The style they choose may link to other units, including Performance Skills: Advanced Application.

Demonstrate advanced movement techniques in solo and group work (outcome 5)

Learners must perform two movement pieces — a solo piece and a group movement piece. Learners can choose the theme or ideas themselves or be directed by you. The movement pieces may link into character work from acting and highlighting a character's emotional journey, thoughts and personality, or they can be more stylised and based on dance or physical theatre.

Apply critical reflection and knowledge, highlighting awareness of skillset and practices (outcome 6)

Learners must produce a creative e-portfolio that documents their learning journey and growth across acting, voice and movement in the unit, and with any work integrated with Performance Skills: Advanced Application. Learners should document their practice, critically reflecting on their growth, research, practice and development. They should cover how they are processing and applying their performance concepts and techniques across the three disciplines, and building them into a cohesive artistic process.

Learners' portfolios should include reflective content and document their journey, with particular focus on the skills and knowledge gained throughout the unit. This could include information on choice of character, rehearsal techniques applied, and the effectiveness of these choices. In reflecting on their skills, learners should highlight any challenges they faced and how they overcame them, and the skills they have learned throughout the process.

You should encourage learners to document their character research, practice and studies to justify acting, vocal and movement choices, and characterisation.

Learners can aim for a visual presentation and explore the use of video and audio blogs, rehearsal footage, creative documentation, and oral presentation. The e-portfolios should be live documents learners use throughout the unit and update regularly as the unit continues. Learners should conclude their e-portfolios with a reflective statement, presented orally or in writing, highlighting personal strengths and weaknesses and strategies for development.

The e-portfolio can be a maximum of 2,000 words. There is no minimum word count applied, however you should ensure that learners have fulfilled the criteria required and their work is succinct, robust and sound. If presented orally, the presentation should last a maximum of 10 minutes.

We recommend the e-portfolio or blog as a sustainable resource for documenting and recording all practice and critical reflection. There are a range of different digital platforms, apps and exemplars that support this method of practice and activity. Your centre may work with a preferred design or platform.

Approaches to assessment

You should use your professional judgement when observing learners in class, rehearsals and performances, to ensure they evidence all knowledge and skills. You can use an assessor's checklist to record your assessment of each outcome.

Apply developed acting practices appropriate to styles required (outcome 1)

Learners apply developed acting practices appropriate to styles required, through workshops, rehearsals and performances. They create a performance portfolio in which they evidence research and understanding of the skills they have gained. Learners' performance portfolios can also contribute to outcome 6 of the unit.

You assess this outcome by observing learners' work in class and rehearsals.

Understand vocal apparatus, application and care (outcome 2)

Learners demonstrate their understanding of their own vocal apparatus, application and care, through a diagnostic of their own vocal qualities and warm-up exercises designed to enhance and protect the voice. This should include a two warm-up exercises to prepare the voice for two different performance spaces, styles or characterisations.

You assess this outcome through on-going observations of learners' voice work and warm-ups.

Demonstrate advanced vocal techniques in a creative context (outcome 3)

Learners demonstrate advanced vocal techniques, confidence and dexterity across a range of texts in a minimum of two contrasting group performance events in two contrasting spaces, and in a solo voice programme. The group performances may integrate with other performances in mandatory and other optional units. The material learners select for their performances should allow them to demonstrate their vocal range, energy, expressiveness and fluency. The solo programme should last between 4 and 6 minutes.

You assess this outcome by observing the two performances in two contrasting spaces and by observing the solo voice programme.

You can integrate the solo voice programme with the solo movement piece in outcome 5. An integrated performance should last a minimum of 6 minutes.

Understand movement styles, application and care (outcome 4)

Learners should demonstrate an understanding of movement styles through taking part in class exercises, workshops and rehearsals.

You assess this outcome by observing class work, workshops and rehearsals.

Demonstrate advanced movement techniques in solo and group work (outcome 5)

Learners demonstrate their movement techniques in a solo piece and a group movement piece. The solo movement piece should be a minimum of 2 minutes. The group movement piece should be a minimum of 3 minutes, but can be longer if integrated with another unit.

You assess this outcome by observing learners' two performances.

You can integrate the solo movement piece with the solo voice programme in outcome 3. An integrated performance should last a minimum of 6 minutes.

Apply critical reflection and knowledge, highlighting awareness of skillset and practices (outcome 6)

Learners present their knowledge for assessment through an e-portfolio. You assess the portfolio for:

- ◆ a summary of key knowledge and skills gained through the exploration of acting practices
- ◆ identification of own vocal qualities and movement skills including areas of strength and weaknesses
- ◆ understanding of the different acting practices
- ◆ evaluation of their own solo performances
- ◆ a conclusion with a reflective statement, highlighting their personal strengths and weaknesses, and strategies for development

You assess this outcome through learners' portfolios.

Equality and inclusion

This unit is designed to be as fair and as accessible as possible with no unnecessary barriers to learning or assessment.

You must consider the needs of individual learners when planning learning experiences, selecting assessment methods or considering alternative evidence.

Guidance on assessment arrangements for disabled learners and those with additional support needs is available on the assessment arrangements web page.
